

Reds, Thieu badger Vietnam peace hopes

By United Press International
North Vietnam said today that any attempt by the United States to alter the text of the Vietnam peace accord will end the chances of a cease-fire. It attacked President Nguyen Van Thieu as an enemy of peace and sharply criticized the Nixon administration for delaying the signing.

There was bitter criticism on the delay from the Viet Cong in Paris which called again for Thieu's dismissal and said his demands were "insolent." Hanoi Radio accused the Nixon administration of trying to deceive public opinion in saying peace was "at hand" while delaying the talks. And in Peking, Premier Chou En-lai said he believes the United States is "to a certain extent" responsible for Thieu's reluctance to agree to the cease-fire. At the same time the official People's Daily, the organ of the Chinese Communist Party, denounced the United States for the delay. Thieu was holding his ground.

He vowed today in Saigon he would never accept a peace treaty that "offers" South Vietnam on a plate to the Communists" and said if the cease-fire had been signed Tuesday as demanded by the Communists, the Communists would have taken over Saigon within 24 hours. One of a series of Hanoi broadcasts attacking the U.S. delays warned: "Unless the United States ends its procrastinating attitude and refrains from asking for the alterations of the points agreed upon, the agreement can never be signed to end the war and restore peace in Vietnam." Hanoi said that it had been promised Saigon would concur in the peace pact worked out since Oct. 8 in Paris and announced last week by the North Vietnamese. "Now, in an effort to justify its bad faith, the United States has pretended problems in Saigon," the broadcast said. It charged that the "problems" had no validity, since the Thieu regime is controlled by the United States. Thieu, in a series of appearances today in Saigon, dismissed charges that he is an obstacle to a peace agreement. He offered to talk directly with the Viet Cong in an effort to come to a settlement, an offer turned down in advance by Viet Cong foreign minister Mpe Nguyen Thi Binh on Tuesday. The back-and-forth broadcasts between Thieu and the Communists appeared to dim.

Reds grab land

SAIGON (UPI)—Bitter fighting broke out throughout Indochina today in what was viewed as a relentless Communist thrust to seize as much territory as possible before a cease-fire is declared.

In Phnom Penh, reliable military sources said all of the several hundred government troops defending Trapeang Kraleng, 35 miles south of the Cambodian capital, were either killed or captured in a Communist onslaught today. The North Vietnamese capture of the district town severed one of Phnom Penh's most vital food and military supply routes along Highway 4.

The U.S. command in Saigon said at least nine Americans died Tuesday when a U.S. Army CH-47 Chinook helicopter carrying more than 20 persons crashed in the Mekong Delta and killed all aboard. Military sources said cause of the crash was not known but hostile fire was not ruled out.

U.S. officials in Vientiane, the capital of Laos, said government troops in bloody fighting Tuesday retook the punhuddle town of Keng Kok but have thus far been unable to recapture the important highway town of Khong Sedone. Both Keng Kok, 175 miles southeast of Vientiane, and Khong Sedone, 247 miles to the southeast, were seized by North Vietnamese troops in a flareup of fighting in the past few weeks. The two towns both lie along Laos' main north-south highway and within 20 miles of the border with Thailand.

Military sources in Phnom Penh said Viet Cong troops today attacked government positions 36 miles northwest of the capital along vital Highway 5, seriously wounding Brig. Gen. 1st Suong and routing the Phnom Penh troops. The sources said 1st Suong, commander of government operations to recapture the four miles of Highway 5 under Communist control, was evacuated to a Phnom Penh hospital.

Congress Demos watched

WASHINGTON (UPI)—A House committee staff says high officials in President Nixon's re-election campaign ordered the Watergate bugging as well as surveillance of bank accounts and love lives of Democratic congressmen and officials.

It appears that a Nixon committee wanted the kind of information that would enable them to disrupt Democratic politics as well as information of an intimate nature which could be used to smear the character of those working and dealing with the Democratic National Committee, the House Banking Committee staff reported Tuesday.

"Rather than being a plan conceived and executed by overzealous volunteers—as spokesmen of the Nixon Committee have attempted to paint the scheme—it was conceived, directed and executed by and for the benefit of the Nixon Committee," the report said.

House Republican Leader Gerald R. Ford demanded the Banking Committee staff members be fired. Nixon's campaign committee said the report was an attempt to "scotch the sinking campaign of George McGovern."

Rep. Wright Patman, D-Tex., the Banking Committee chairman, ordered the report made public. Patman said that it had been requested by the committee at its last meeting Oct. 12.

Quoting an unnamed source, in which the committee staff has "utmost confidence," the report said, former Nixon campaign treasurer Hugh Sloan bragged to a confidant at a late 1971 luncheon meeting that the Republicans could monitor the bank accounts of Democratic House members and Senators.

The "confidential" report said, recounted the conversation to a committee investigator.

GOP agrees to reveal secret donors of funds

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's re-election finance committee agreed in court today to make public the names of some contributors to a secret $10 million campaign fund.

The agreement came just as a trial was to begin in a federal lawsuit filed by Common Cause, the "citizens' lobby," to compel disclosure of the names of those who gave funds to Nixon's re-election campaign before April 7.

A Common Cause spokesman said the Republicans agreed in a consent order to release the names of those who contributed about $5 million collected between Jan. 1, 1971 and March 3, 1972.

Under the consent order, the Republicans agreed to make public by 9 p.m. EST Thursday the names of all who contributed more than $1,000 prior to March 9 and by noon Sunday the names of all who gave gifts of more than $100.

Common Cause characterized the order as a victory. In its suit, the public interest organization argued that the 1925 Corrupt Practices Act required the disclosure of the names of major contributors. The organization argued that law was still valid even though it was replaced by the new law on April 7.

The last filing date under the old law was March 10. For that reason the Republicans refused to make public the names of contributors who gave between March 9 and April 7, when the new law took effect.

Common Cause said if the Republicans refused to make public the names of contributors and the lawsuit had been fought out, Maurice Stans would have been compelled to testify. Stans is Nixon's finance chairman and his appearance on the witness stand would have led to questions about the financing about the Watergate episode.

Demos demand peace

By United Press International
With the White House saying it is "improbable" a Vietnam settlement will be signed before election day, Democrat George McGovern and his running mate have demanded peace now and accused President Nixon of announcing peace and failing to produce it.

Both McGovern and Sargent Shriver, the vice presidential candidate, struck hard at the theme as the 1972 campaign moved into its final week. And they received some backing from the mild-spoken and respected Democratic leader of the Senate, Mike Mansfield of Montana.

(Related stories P. 5)
Campaigning at New Brunswick, N.J., Tuesday night, McGovern said Americans were dying while the details of a cease-fire were being worked out.

"We want peace, not sooner or later, but now," McGovern said.

Shriver, speaking at Fresno, Calif., argued that Nixon had "pulled the rug out from under himself" when he announced terms for peace in Vietnam and "failed to produce it."

He said Republican peace plans come "like leap year."

"They come every four years only—in October," Shriver said.

Marauding goblins burn hay, outhouse

Mischievous goblins were busy around the Magic Valley Halloween night, with several pranks involving fires.

Much activity reported to police and sheriff's officers involved egg tossing, window breaking, painting and similar petty vandalism.

However, in downtown Twin Falls, a privy set up at the intersection of Main Avenue and Shoshone Street was set afire about 2:40 a.m. today. Firemen put out the blaze.

Another fire a mile west and a half mile south of Burley Tuesday evening destroyed a haystack containing about 100 tons of hay owned by dairyman Sam Shaw. Burley. Two fire trucks were sent to the scene at 9:30 p.m. Firemen continued fighting the fire until daybreak.

At Rupert, sales of straw were set ablaze at several intersections.

Twin Falls Police Officer William E. Stonomors, who worked a double shift to patrol against pranksters, arrived home early today to find toilet paper strewn about his residence.

About 35 dozen eggs were collected from Twin Falls youngsters, but there and in other towns eggs were smashed on cars and buildings. Tomatoes were lobbed at buildings in several locations, too.

In Gooding, black spray paint was used to decorate buildings on Main Street and to write obscenities on the south wall of the courthouse.

At Jerome, a peace symbol was painted on the town's water tower.

Building and vehicle windows were reported broken at Ketchum-Motors.

In Bellevue, where vandals were at work Monday night, too, several benches from a drive-in restaurant were piled in Highway 43, where one was smashed by a passing vehicle.

Halloween goblins also hit the Times-News early in the day. A photograph on the front page of Tuesday's edition was incorrectly listed as showing the Bo-Peep Kindergarten. The photo was taken at Mrs. Dortha Shorthouse's kindergarten, 260 Sixth Ave. N. in Twin Falls.

Israelis seal off heights

By United Press International
Israel closed off the occupied Golan Heights today because of what a military source in Tel Aviv said was a possible new round of fighting with Syria. In the Gaza strip, an Arab was killed and three Israelis were wounded Tuesday night when Israeli troops clashed with Palestinian guerrilla ambushers.

The closure of the Heights came after Syrian artillery Monday shelled a 12-mile stretch of the Israeli-occupied area, wounding an Israeli soldier. The shelling occurred in between two Israeli air strikes into Syria in the heaviest day of fighting with Syria since the Middle East cease-fire went into effect nearly 27 months ago.

The military source in Tel Aviv told UPI correspondent Thomas Chatham that although it is currently quiet in the Heights, "we are always ready." With the closure, military policemen were turning back all but authorized military personnel and residents.

'Quit job, join welfare, save son'

HARRISBURG, Pa. (UPI)—Bonnie Marshall says it "just isn't fair."

Her son, Kevin, 12, is a hemophiliac who needs $1,000 worth of treatments every month to stay alive. And the state says there is only one way the Marshalls can get the medicine—go on welfare.

Mrs. Marshall, whose husband earns $7,800 a year, said she already has explored the possibility of applying for relief. "We were told that we earn too much," she said.

The suburban Camp Hill

woman went to state officials for help several months ago when private donors could no longer finance the treatments. Dr. Leonard Bachman, Gov. Milton J. Shapp's director of human services, told her Tuesday that welfare provided the only program to help Kevin.

"We exhausted every possible avenue and we came up with zero," Bachman said. "The only hope for her is to go on public welfare. Then she would be eligible for reimbursement for medicine."

Mrs. Marshall, who has two other children, said she and her husband, Francis, did not want to live on welfare. The state said the family could not qualify for relief unless Marshall quit his job with Simplex Time Corp. or found a way to lower his income to fit the "medically needy" category.

"What else can I do?" Mrs. Marshall said. "No one else can come up with any other alternatives. It just isn't fair. We want to carry our load. We don't need all the luxuries of life. But if that is the game they want to play, then I guess we will have to play it." Mrs. Marshall said Kevin already gets medical assistance to pay for his visits to the doctor and the family gets $30 in food stamps a month. A caseworker told them their income was too high for anything else, she said.

Kevin's treatment, a blood product which causes clotting, previously was financed by family savings or donations from private organizations.

One local foundation, which paid for many treatments, recently notified the Marshall family that its funds were exhausted. "They cannot just keep supplying him," Mrs. Marshall said. "He is not going to get any better."

She said she purchased the last batch of serum with a $410 donation from students at Shippensburg State College but it is expected to run out within a week.

Kevin recently bled at the ankle and now is too weak to attend school, according to the mother. His ankle has been wrapped in a plaster cast to immobilize it.

Symms promises to help farmers

By United Press International
Steve Symms, Republican candidate from the First Congressional District, said Tuesday during a taped debate his first aim as an elected representative would be to join the House Agriculture Committee.

In the debate with his opponent Democrat Ed Williams, Symms said, "My hope would be to help the Idaho farmer by expanding markets and trading throughout the world. There is a major problem today, and expanding markets will be beneficial to the small and big farmers alike."

Williams outlined a three-point farm program, saying, he too, would seek membership on the House Agriculture Committee if elected Nov. 7.

His plan includes keeping "outside corporate agribusiness" interests from developing in Idaho, setting up a mass consumer education program for buying meat and produce (helping and supporting foreign trade "as long as we get paid in good, hard money."

Elsewhere on the Idaho political scene Tuesday, U. S. Senator Frank Church and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, officially endorsed Democratic First District Congressional hopeful Ed Williams.

"Ed Williams is a down-to-earth, common-sense type of man," Andrus said. "His record in the Idaho legislature makes that clear. Ed Williams is the people's candidate."

In Burley meanwhile, Democratic Senate nominee William E. Davis announced that Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., has said if Davis is elected he will be appointed to the Senate Agriculture Committee.

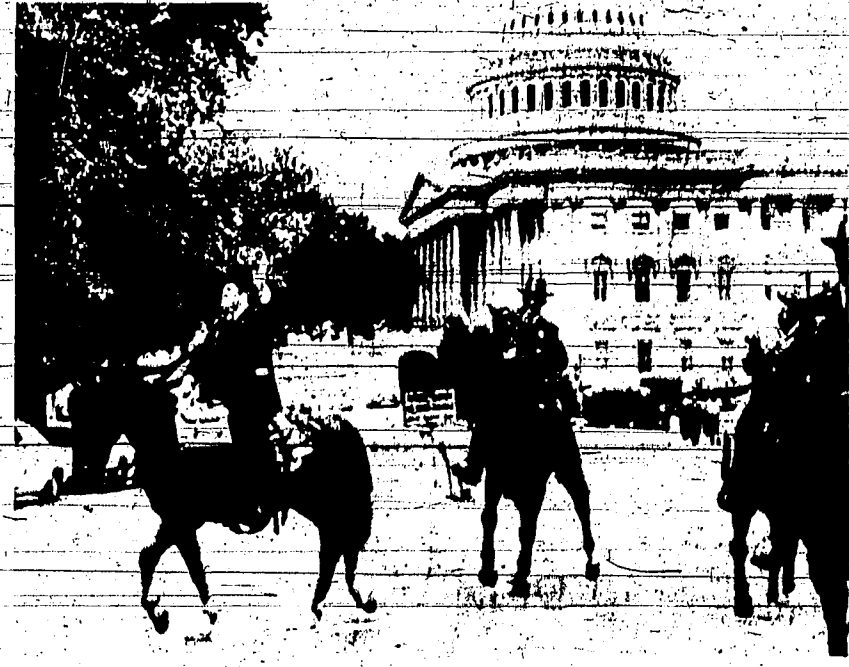

According to Davis, Mansfield made the statement in front of a group of Idaho Falls farmers last Friday.

"The opportunity to serve on this important committee would enable me to serve the interests of Idaho agriculture," the Ponchaire Democrat said.

"I would also be in a position to represent and seek solutions for the problems of Idaho's timber industry, because the U. S. Forest Service falls under the ag committee," he added.

The Idaho State University President said such an appointment would make him the only senator from the Western states on the committee.

Also in the Magic Valley Tuesday, Republican Second District congressional hopeful Orval Hansen said the outlook for the American farmer is brighter today than it has been for "many years."

Halloween kids visit California ghost town

CONSTANTIA, Calif. (UPI) — Fred Galeppi, 80, has lived with the eerie legends of this Northern Sierra ghost town since 1923 but never celebrated Halloween and never was visited by a trick-or-treating youngster. That is until Tuesday.

The celebration began when a family with seven children in costumes drove 37 miles from Reno, Nev., after reading in a local newspaper that the town had attracted only two Halloween visitors during the past 50 years.

"It's the biggest Halloween party we've had since I've been here," said Mary Chaney, Galeppi's housekeeper for 24 years and one of the three remaining residents of the town. "We treated the children to some goodies, and we talked for a while and then they went on."

Mrs. Chaney said Galeppi, a bachelor who is the self-proclaimed mayor and owner of a ranch at the desolate community, was "delighted" by his first Halloween visit but went to sleep soon after the Reno children departed.

"He usually goes to bed right after supper," she said.

Later, 11 youngsters from nearby Doyle came for trick-or-treat goodies.

Some Doyle residents tell stories about ghosts being in Constantia along with tales about mysterious figures, disappearing graveyards and eerie happenings near the site of an old 22-room showplace mansion that burned down several years ago.

What do doctors recommend for patients in pain?

Doctors all over the country dispense over 50,000,000 of these tablets to their patients each year.

There are many medications a physician or dentist can prescribe for pain. Some are available only on prescription but there is one pain reliever available without prescription, doctors dispense Anacin over the counter.

Each year, doctors give over 50,000,000 Anacin tablets to their patients in pain. If doctors think enough about Anacin to dispense all these tablets, what better recommendation can you ask when you are in pain?

You see, Anacin contains more of the pain reliever also recommended more than any other leading tablet.

Headache and dental pain is relieved noticeably fast, minor pains of arthritis are dependably eased for hours, even the aches and pains of colds and flu respond to Anacin. So the tenacious tension that can be caused by such pain will be relieved too. And millions take Anacin without stomach upset.

When you're in pain, why don't you follow this practice of so many doctors and take the tablet a doctor might give you in his own office. Take Anacin.

Silver dollar sale

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Using a computerized mail order action system, the government has placed on public sale 2 million rare silver dollars minted prior to 1893.

The coins will be sold to collectors for a minimum $30 apiece. The Treasury Department said Tuesday order blanks may be obtained at banks and post offices.

The treasury has a stash of 2.9 million silver dollars which were produced at the Carson City, Nev., mint in the 19th Century but never circulated. They contain 70 per cent silver, mined from the famed Comstock Lode, and their value as collectors' items was enhanced when the treasury switched to the Eisenhower silver dollar, which is made of a copper-nickel combination.

Davis hits McClure tactics

By DAVID ESPO
Times-News writer

TWIN FALLS — Dr. William E. (Bud) Davis Tuesday accused his opponent, Rep. James A. McClure of running "a very negative and very defensive campaign."

Davis, Democratic senatorial candidate, making a brief campaign stop in Twin Falls, accused McClure, Republican, of seeking to "link me to stands I have never publicly supported."

The Democrat said McClure had "manufactured issues," and mentioned abortion legislation, blanket amnesty for draft resisters, the legalization of marijuana and a potato boycott.

And, Davis said of his opponent, "At no time has he pointed out what he would do if elected to the Senate."

The Democrat candidate also repeated a basic campaign charge that McClure's attendance record in Congress was itself an issue in the senatorial race.

Davis saved his strongest criticism of McClure for what he termed "the representative's 'deliberate distortion of the facts and projection of my signing of what I considered a personal commitment of refraining from eating lettuce' at the Sun Valley Democratic state convention earlier this summer."

McClure has said his opponent's signing the pledge was an equivocation against the possibility of a boycott against Idaho potatoes.

A full page advertisement in Tuesday's edition of the south Idaho Press, a Bayley newspaper, said in part "U.S. Senate candidate Bud Davis has admitted signing the pledge to support the Cesar Chavez (farm labor organizer) lettuce boycott."

A potato boycott which, as Chavez has stated, is designed to do away with the farm labor legislation passed by the 1972 state Legislature, and bring all the Idaho agriculture under the Chavez United Farm Workers thumb."

The advertisement was paid for by the "Committee of Farmers and Businessmen Concerned About Idaho Agriculture," Jay McBride co-ordinator.

McBride said today the full page advertisement, which contains no mention of McClure's name, had not been paid for by any of the McClure campaign funds, and the money had been provided by a local group of sponsors.

He said, however, he didn't know "for sure" whether the McClure campaign had authorized the ad, or seen it before its publication.

But Davis, who had not seen the advertisement when he visited Twin Falls and Tuesday, "I do not support a potato boycott, my judgment is that I'm opposed to a potato boycott."

Davis also announced that Sen. Mike Mansfield, D-Mont, the Senate majority leader, had told him in Idaho Falls last week that he would be appointed to the Senate Agricultural Committee.

Jaycees issue blood challenge

TWIN FALLS — Twin Falls Jaycees issued a challenge today to all civic and college organizations in the Red Cross blood drawing scheduled Monday.

The challenge is to determine which group can donate the most pints of blood, according to Tom Lane, blood drawing chairman for the Jaycees.

The drawing will be held in the American Legion Hall, 205 Third Ave. E.

A quota of 150 pints of blood has been set for the drawing, scheduled from 1 p.m. until 6 p.m.

Sunshine reopening uncertain

SPOKANE, Wash. (UPI) — Interior Secretary Rogers C.B. Morton said Tuesday he did not know when the Sunshine Mine will be reopened.

Morton was last in this area in early May when the Sunshine Mine fire in north Idaho's silver-rich Coeur d'Alene Mining District killed 91 men in the state's worst disaster.

Morton told a news conference, "We're still examining it. There's a whole lot of territory underground there."

He said since the fire, his department's Bureau of Mines had put on more inspectors in the non-coal mining areas.

However, he said he felt the infrequency of inspections had nothing to do with the fire breaking out in the nation's largest and richest silver mine.

FAA warned before hijack

HOUSTON (UPI) — The Federal Aviation Administration (FAA) warned domestic airlines that a father and son team might attempt air piracy but neglected to notify the Houston FBI office which was looking for the two on another charge, according to an FBI agent.

Thomas Jordan, the FBI's agent in charge, said Tuesday his office had no knowledge of the FAA warning which was issued two days before an Eastern Airlines jetliner was hijacked and forced to fly to Cuba.

The FBI was seeking Charles A. Tuller, 41, and his son Bryce, 19, on bank robbery and murder charges. They were later charged in the hijacking.

The Tullers and two other men shot their way aboard the jet at International Airport early Sunday, killing an airlines ramp agent and then forced the pilot to fly to Havana at gunpoint.

Jordan said agents on Tuesday found the rented car which the Tullers apparently used to drive from an attempted bank robbery in Virginia to Houston. The car was found in an airport parking lot.

The warning was issued after a search of the Tullers apartment at Arlington, Va., turned up parachutes, guns and a two-way radio.

The elder Tuller resigned Oct. 17 from a U.S. Commerce Department job that paid $26,000 a year.

A policeman and the bank president were killed in the bank robbery attempt in Virginia.

Canyon measure planned

BOISE (UPI) — Sen. Frank Church may introduce legislation to preserve Hells Canyon permanently at the next session of Congress, the Idaho Statesman reported today.

The newspaper said Church and the Hells Canyon Preservation Council are "very close to being in agreement on the proposed legislation."

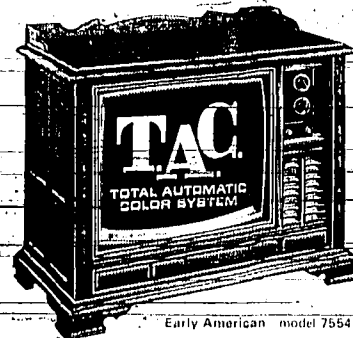

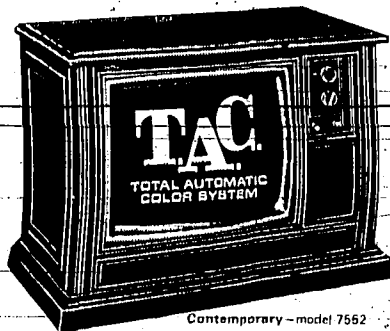

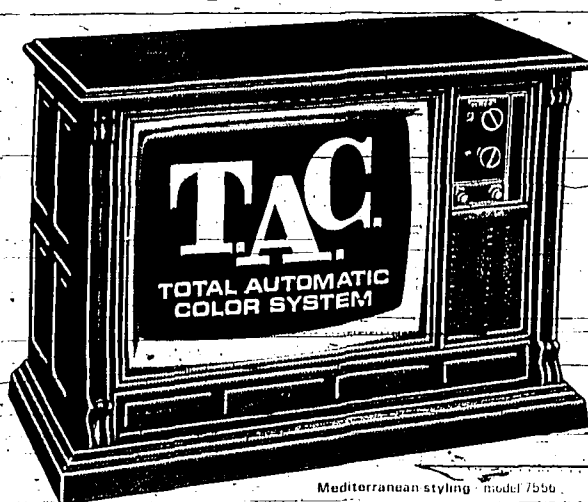

It said the bill would protect the Middle Snake River from rim to rim and downstream from Hells Canyon Dam to Asotin, Wash.

The Delmarva Peninsula received its name from the three states included on it — Delaware, Maryland and Virginia.

The Need Looms

Another duel, another defeat — and Cassia County's educational needs loom untended.

On Oct. 17, 48 per cent of the Cassia voters defeated a $2.95 million school bond proposal, the sixth to fail since 1959.

If asked to explain their negative votes, most would probably echo an Oakley resident who said the proposal "includes so much that we don't need." But only a few would deny that it offered one desperately needed element — a united step forward in providing very obvious, very urgent educational improvements.

The word "united" should be stressed because it describes a life-giving prerequisite that has been absent in all the Cassia efforts. Voters wait for the trustees' proposal, then form pro-and-con ranks that are ineffective in swaying sentiment and disastrous in establishing a divisiveness that not only dooms the immediate proposal but continues to the next and the next.

And there will always be another proposal because the needs will not disappear; they will fester like untreated wounds.

At Declo Elementary, students tread floors that are shored up with timbers braced against decaying foundation walls. The school's basement appears to be a study in counterpoise.

More than 800 Burley junior-high students attend classes in a sixty-year-old building that should house fewer than 600 pupils.

Spring Elementary has been closed by a state agency acting on one of many criticisms contained in a Department of Labor survey of Cassia schools.

But the next proposal should in fact be approved prior to its judgement at the ballot box. It should be the result of a concerted, county-wide effort that virtually guarantees its passage. The five school trustees have a confounding task — they must coalesce ever-widening needs with increasingly restrictive constituent desires — and would surely welcome a mandate by the electorate concerning specific, viable goals.

The Oakley Valley Improvement Group and the Cassia County Citizens for Better Schools Committee were diametrically opposed and essentially reactionary concerning the Oct. 17 proposal. If they can agree on basic school priorities (members of both said Declo Elementary is deplorable), perhaps they can initiate a proposal rather than react to one offered them.

The needs are there — they will not go away.

MR. SPECTATOR

Times Do Change

I guess times really do change. I can remember when a "swinger" was a gay blade who danced the Black Bottom, or the Charleston or the One-Step.

Well, at least not all is lost. In my day we never associated a "swinger" with the waltz.

CARD TIME

Ordered your Christmas cards yet? If you order special ones then you had better get on the ball because it does take time for the printer to turn them out. If you pick from the counters then get in early anyway because the selection is never as complete as it is today.

A THOUGHT

Now that Daylight Saving time is off, we can drive home in the dark. Which reminds me that most TV announcers say "Daylight Savings" when in reality there is no "s" — and it is only Daylight Saving.

AMONG THE BEST

One of the best remarks we have heard in a long time came from Senator Church as he addressed the Democratic candidate dinner in Twin Falls recently. He was telling about the fact that over the years a wall of grandeur and awe has been built up around our Presidents. But he said, do not believe it because even the President of the United States puts his trousers on one leg at a time — just like all men do!

THE VOTE

Next Tuesday is the day — and don't forget to get to the polls.

Which reminds us that the other night we once more heard national TV say the computerized "Projections" would be used again in this election. That means that by the time the people in the Mountain States have voted — and the Pacific-zone people are just getting ready to vote, the national announcements will be coming on with statements of who is the winner.

Which brings up another point. By running an election this way, it will someday eliminate the necessity of going to the polls at all. A representative group of people can be interviewed, their feelings studied, and then on election day the announcement of the winner can be made. Nice, huh?

DEFINING HEADACHE

Tax experts in the Internal Revenue Service are busy once again rewriting forms and instruction booklets to make them easier to understand. In the process they already have rubbed out your spouse. The word, that is, not the person.

Instead of spouse, which Commissioner Johnnie Walters complained sounded too much like a water fountain, the words "husband" and "wife" are substituted. Nary a spouse can be found on any of the products revealed to the press so far.

There are more substantial changes than that one, of course. In fact, preliminary reviews give every indication the IRS — if it may be on the right track to its long-running simplification efforts. The short form has been brought back for those with relatively simple facts to report. It has been simplified and much of the technical jargon has been removed from the instructions. A tax glossary has been added to give the taxpayer definitions for terminology still used.

Thus, some taxpayers still will have to know what low-income allowance and percentage standard deduction mean, but simple definitions will be provided. What is percentage standard deduction?

Sorry, sneak previews never reveal the plot climax.

GOOSE AND GOLDEN EGG

An increasing reluctance of private investors in the U.S. to risk their funds by sending them to the southern hemisphere is not difficult to understand. Chile's seizure of American copper properties is only the latest in a long list of seizures of American property by Latin American countries, the total amounting to billions of dollars.

This has made American businessmen wary about the future in all Latin American countries. Some pretend they are going to repay the American owners of seized property sometime in the future, but never do.

Others, as in the case of Cuba, make no pretense from the outset that owners of purloined wealth would ever receive a nickel and of course they never have.

The Choice Offered

Editor, Times-News:
The National Election 1972 does offer the American voters a choice even though the fact has carefully been kept hidden from the American people by the news media. We are led to believe there is only the Democratic and Republican parties — Socialist Party A and Socialist Party B. Therefore many refuse to take any interest at all and will ultimately neglect to vote. But the future of America and our Free Enterprise system is at stake. The one party that is defending that system is the American party. Not a third-party really, but a genuine second-party for patriots.

Congressman John Schmitz of California and Tom Anderson of Tennessee are the Presidential and vice Presidential candidates respectively of the American party. They stand for the principals of individual freedom and national sovereignty that our founding fathers envisioned for our country when they revolted against the autocratic use of political power and set up our Constitutional government.

The 100 per cent Constitutional voting average of Congressman John Schmitz proves that he believes in binding the American government down with the chains of the Constitution. John Schmitz and the American Party believe:

As a law student with much concern for our Supreme Court I wish to voice my support for President Nixon. Without doubt the present Court is a vast improvement over the Court of Earl Warren and Abe Fortas and most members of the legal profession approve of the President's appointees to the Bench.

Another respected member of the legal profession, Cong. Jim McClure, deserves our valued Senate seat. A competent lawyer and legislator, the people of Idaho have elected him to office nine times. Let's make sure the 10th time we vote for Jim McClure gives him the most overwhelming majority he has ever had.

In keeping American militarily secure. In keeping the Federal government out of our classrooms. In refusing to bus school children to achieve racial balance.

That the hordes of people on welfare should not live better than those who work.

That criminals shouldn't be coddled and set free.

That the government should support its fighting men with everything required to win its wars.

That it is treasonous to give aid and trade to your enemies while at war. That no skirmish should be entered into with another nation unless our Congress first declares war. That our taxes should not be poured down foreign rat-holes that win us enemies instead of friends.

The American party is made up of millions of patriots who have complained for years that the other two parties did not represent them. Now in 1972, there is a place, a party, and good, dedicated, patriotic candidates running for whom they can cast their ballot. They will not have to vote for the "lesser of two evils" which is still evil.

Editor, Times-News:
As election day rolls near our Senatorial race intensifies in charges and defense it is interesting that Mr. McClure campaigns by saying "let's send a leader to the Senate," when in fact his own record is a dismal failure in leadership.

Mr. McClure stated "consumer protection is everybody's business," however, on five bills important to consumer protection he has voted no (facts are taken from the Congressional Record). The bills are: The National Commission on Product Safety, Wholesale Meat Act of 1967, The Truth-in-Lending Act, Wholesome Poultry Products Act and Consumer Protection Agency.

On 10 bills vital to education in this session, he voted on only three and missed the other seven votes. Pertaining to 40 bills this session important to college students, again Mr. McClure voted "no" on three bills and missed the other seven. Jim McClure, busy being a leader, did not vote on 15 key environmental bills.

Sen. Margaret Chase Smith (R-Maine) plans to offer a constitutional amendment that if in effect this year would have expelled Mr. McClure from the Congress for this poor attendance record. This will expel legislators with a voting record of under sixty per cent. He has a record of fifty eight per cent. Bud Davis over the past 20 years has established a solid reputation as an outstanding educator. Dr. Davis is vitally concerned with the well being of all consumer protection, education, security for the retired, and the conservation of America's resources. Justice, equality and integrity from the foundation of his life. Let's send a leader to the Senate. Bud Davis.

I want to express my appreciation to Ralph Nader for his report in "Citizens Look at Congress." Was undecided on who to vote for as Idaho Representative in Congress. Orval Hansen or Willis Ludlow. After reading his report in your paper I am definitely decided that it will be a vote for the reelection of Orval Hansen.

Mr. Nader states that "much of his legislative activity was designed as pork barrel bills for the legislative district." Isn't that wonderful? We are paying $170,000 a year in salaries to delegates in Congress from Idaho plus twice that much in their approved expenses, or approximately half a million dollars a year, and he is the only one who is interested in the people of the district he serves. Our two Senators are so interested in International or National affairs that they should be paid by the State Department or some other branch of the Federal government. They are so imbued with ideas of moving to a higher National office, or retiring at a higher pension that they consider Idaho as a beautiful place to visit and its people only as a source of increased spending money by the people of Idaho and their income are of such minor importance to them that it is unimportant and need not be considered.

Unique Problems

Editor, Times-News:
Political candidates have unique problems when they put in for a job. Not having held the job before, they might lack experience. Having held the job, they might have become corrupt or hide-bound. An incumbent might be highly qualified, while the newcomer's strength seems to be a simple "gut-feeling" he arouses in the voting public.

Oddly enough, or perhaps not so odd, the man who instills instant confidence upon his first presentation to the people quite often comes out at later light to be just as highly qualified or more so. Man is a mirror to himself, what you see is what you get, this is my belief, that more reflects his quality. Frank Church has always had this charisma. Len Jordan was very presentable from his start also.

So too with Bud Davis. He has made a strong first impression and progressed on solid credentials throughout the summer. On TV the other day I saw for the first time the Minidome, I and thousands of other intermountain viewers. Very impressed, I was, by the structure, the college for having built it, and the visionary president who made it reality. The sportscenter took special note that the Minidome is unique for a school Idaho's size.

On the other hand, a Mr. Gist from Fruitland suggests some negatives about Bud Davis in our Forum. I think a good way to dissuade people from using drugs is to show them a Leary, and let them listen to him, and see the man up close. Today's youth is highly receptive and intelligent, they know a loser when they see one, so show them one. I redirected your flow of words but retained your facts, Mr. Gist, about abortion at ISU. Here's what I got: a student polished silverware two weeks for involvement in abortion whose parents were tied to by faculty members that Dr. Davis still employs. But who's silverware?

What was the involvement? And most important, abortion to who? where? why? when? Abortion is the what, but you need the five W's even for factual misdirection, sir.

I have reason to believe that all the state and federal candidates are morally opposed to marijuana and abortion but just don't favor suppression of dissenting views. Bud Davis looks good to me, just as good as his opponent, although his opponent isn't the incumbent, and Bud Davis' image is still growing.

Serious Mis-Statements

Editor, Times-News:
This is an open letter which Mr. Kramer addressed to the Boise newspaper and to the Times-News.

I was the general chairman and the master of ceremonies for the visit of the Vice President in Twin Falls on Veterans Day, October 23.

Your reporter, John Corlett reported the incident and made some serious mis-statements which need correcting. He reported that about 4,000 persons were in the CSI gymnasium and that 4,000 of those group were school children "recruited" from Twin Falls schools. Please be advised that the capacity of the gymnasium is 4,500 and well over 5,000 people were in the gymnasium. Approximately 2,000 more were turned away at the door. As far as the recruiting is concerned, we made a special section available in the gymnasium for people who were known to be friendly primarily for reasons of the security and safety of the Vice President of the United States. The fact that we were concerned over his safety and security surely should not upset Mr. Corlett.

I am very much disappointed in the reporting job done by Mr. Corlett. In addition to the erroneous reporting about the crowds Corlett attempts to leave the inference that Vice President Agnew did not endorse Jim McClure for United States Senate. Agnew repeatedly during his address endorse McClure for the Senate as well as Orval Hansen and Steve Symms for the Congress.

The next time Mr. Corlett comes to Twin Falls to report a matter concerning the Republican Party, it may be well if you read the Times News published in Twin Falls each day before you print Mr. Corlett's story. If you will read the October 24 issue of the Times News, you will find that there was "an overflow crowd" and that he "urged voters to support the Republican congressional slate of Rep. James A. McClure for the Senate, and congressional candidates Steve Symms in the first district and incumbent Rep. Orval Hansen, in the second district."

For your information and for the information of Mr. Corlett, the crowd that gathered for the Vice President's visit was the largest crowd for any event ever assembled in Magic Valley.

As farmers and livestockmen we feel now is the time to stress a very important issue of the Idaho United States Senate race.

Even though Wm. (Bud) Davis is a higher education administrator we feel that he is hardly capable of representing the agricultural interests of Idaho which is by far our state's largest industry and provider of livelihood for a very large segment of our population.

We feel this was particularly demonstrated when Mr. Davis supported the Cesar Chavez secondary lettuce boycott earlier this year. If Mr. Davis will support a lettuce boycott what is to keep him from supporting a boycott of wheat, potatoes, livestock and other agricultural products?

There are many other important issues of this campaign but this one point alone is reason enough to not support Mr. Davis for this important post.

As farmers we feel that the people of Idaho must have a man that does not even flirt with men such as Chavez but will stand up for agriculture all the way. Bud Davis is not the man!

We sincerely urge your support for Jim McClure for United States Senator, who has proven his ability to represent all of Idaho's interests in Washington D. C.

It's almost impossible to believe, but the Idaho State Constitution requires only three years of public schooling for children.

Article IX, Section 20 of the Constitution states, "The legislature may require by law that every child of sufficient mental and physical ability shall attend the public school throughout the period between the ages of six and eighteen years, for a period equivalent to three years."

Obviously, this archaic provision is useless in 1972 and eliminating it will add needed credibility to the state constitution.

In the November election, Vote "Yes" for SJR 124 which eliminates the language which states that a child must attend school for only three years.

Canadian voters narrowly turn out Trudeau regime

OTTAWA (UPI) — Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau's Liberal government has lost the confidence of the Canadian House of Commons today to decide the future of his Liberal government following Canada's closest national election.

At an Ottawa press conference Tuesday, Conservative leader Robert Stanfield said he felt the election results showed Trudeau had lost the confidence of the Canadian House of Commons in Monday's general election. The Liberals won 103, New Democrats 30, Social Credit 15 and independents two.

Records could change the standings in the days and weeks ahead, however.

At his 30-minute news conference Tuesday, Stanfield said if Trudeau decided to continue governing Canada the Conservatives would not hinder his efforts providing the government moved to enact what he considered "desirable" legislation.

Agnew says Demo city plan 'hasty'

WARREN, Mich. (UPI) — Vice President Spiro T. Agnew said Tuesday George S. McGovern ignored the problems of the city until six weeks before election day and then appointed an urban policy panel to work out a platform.

The end result, Agnew said, was a document which "reflects the haste with which it was put together."

"It is long on the inflammatory type of charge that has so characterized Mr. McGovern's campaign," Agnew said. "It is short on, almost totally devoid of, the type of innovative and constructive proposal which has typified the President's record in domestic affairs."

Agnew's highly publicized campaign visit to Warren to dedicate a sewer retention plant drew about 500 persons.

Trudeau, 53, was scheduled to meet with his cabinet today to discuss his government's future. He was "expected" to announce his intentions to the public following the meeting.

President schedules re-election foray

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will make a three-state campaign trip Friday aimed both at boosting his own re-election effort and swinging two Senate seats now held by Democrats into the Republican column.

The only item on Nixon's political schedule for today was a radio address on urban policy, one of five broadcast speeches scheduled for the final week of his bid for a second term.

Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler announced late Tuesday that Nixon would go to Chicago, Oklahoma, and Rhode Island Friday. He said the cities to be visited in Oklahoma and Rhode Island would be announced soon.

The Chicago stop will be built around a rally at O'Hare airport. It was added to the schedule to replace a Tuesday trip which was canceled because of the Chicago railroad tragedy.

Ziegler said Nixon decided to go to Oklahoma and Rhode Island to spur the campaigns of Republican candidates for the Senate—former Gov. Dewey Bartlett in Oklahoma and former governor and Navy Secretary John Chafee in Rhode Island. Bartlett is seeking the seat being vacated by Democrat Fred Harris while Chafee is trying to oust Democratic incumbent Claiborne Pell.

The Oklahoma and Rhode Island Senate races are closely contested. Nixon will be joined in his Chicago appearance by Sen. Charles H. Percy, R-Ill., but Percy is considered far ahead in his campaign for another six-year term.

TWIN FALLS — The Magic Valley Licensed Practical Nurses have postponed their next scheduled meeting until Nov. 9. Officers will be elected and a bazaar held at that time. Members are asked to bring items to be sold. The meeting will be at Magic Valley Memorial Hospital.

Nixon 'pulls out rug'

FRESNO, Calif. (UPI) — President Nixon "has pulled the rug out from under himself" by announcing terms for peace in Vietnam and "failing to produce it," Shriver, the Democratic vice presidential candidate, told some 4,000 persons at Fresno State University that Republican peace plans were "like leap year." He added, "They come every four years—only in October."

Nixon supporters had said the President "would pull the rug out from under George McGovern by ending the war," Shriver said, but "I say now that Nixon has announced the peace and failed to produce it—he has pulled the rug out from under himself."

Earlier in San Francisco Shriver said the accord was "absurd" and a "worthless" piece of paper.

"The terms are substantially no different and no better than the terms we could have gotten four years ago," he said. "What have we got for $80 billion in money, 20,000 Americans killed and 100,000 wounded? It is a fantastic overprice for what we have gotten."

Shriver made the comments in appearances on radio telephone talk and television shows, as he spent a day campaigning in Northern California.

Enzymes okayed

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Food and Drug Administration (FDA) recently clarified the confusion about whether enzymes might be a health hazard or a pollutant.

The FDA released a report of an 11-month study made at its request by the National Academy of Sciences—National Research Council. The report confirmed that enzyme detergents are safe for consumer use, are biodegradable and therefore probably do not cause pollution.

McGovern 'confident'

NEW YORK (UPI) — George McGovern will not accept the verdict of the polls and neither will his crowds.

In Syracuse, N.Y., people hung from trees to see him. In New Brunswick, N.J., they stood on chairs and table tops to scream, "We want McGovern." In Manhattan Tuesday night, in a ballroom, the festooned hotel ballroom, they had an "old fashioned picnic" without the ants and shook the rafters with their applause.

In 15 hours, McGovern and his wife Eleanor—celebrating their 29th wedding anniversary—saw between 25,000 and 35,000 people. By the end of the day McGovern's voice had grown hoarse with his shouted warnings that an upset was in the making election day.

Hitting the larger industrial states almost exclusively in the waning days of the campaign, McGovern this morning appears on the NBC-TV "Today" show, attends a lunch rally in New York's Garment District, then flies to Minnesota and Illinois.

"I predict the public opinion pollsters are going to be the most red-faced people in the country, next Tuesday," McGovern told 12,000 people dressed in overcoats and scarves in the courthouse square at Syracuse.

In a television interview in Syracuse, he contended the polls were wrong because people were afraid to tell strange men at their doorsteps the truth for fear they might be FBI investigators.

"A lot of people are laying back," he said. "Some of them in the climate of fear in this country are afraid to tell the truth to a private pollster. I know some cases where people have told me they didn't know whether the pollsters were real or from the FBI or some agent snooping around."

At the "picnic," which consisted of hot dogs and chili, cost $100 a plate and was attended by 1,500, McGovern said, "Freedom is under attack in this country, not from an invading enemy but from ambitious, unscrupulous men who love their political power more than they love their country."

cabinet members whose resignations he accepts.

The sources speculated that any new government might be more flexible in dealing with the strike, which has involved truck drivers, businessmen, bank clerks, dentists and doctors.

The 15 cabinet members, nearly all Communist or Socialist party members, offered their resignations Tuesday.

A strike by truck drivers that began Oct. 11 to protest Allende's jettisoning of pollsters brought other walkouts. Some 200,000 most all of the transportation, business, financial, professional, and retail trade. The strikes have resulted in shortages of basic foods, fuel and other necessities.

Holiday calms Chilean crisis

SANTIAGO, Chile (UPI) — A cabinet holiday coupled with a political vacuum brought on by the resignation of President Salvador Allende's entire cabinet gave Chile a relative respite today from the strife that has gripped the nation for more than three weeks.

However, pilots of the Chilean national airline LAN went on strike today and all flights were suspended. The pilots struck in protest against the firing of LAN's flight engineers after they joined nationwide strikes that have damaged the nation's economy.

The holiday was All Saints Day and many businesses were closed.

Political sources said Allende might name a number of military officers to replace the

Chicago's rail disaster probed

CHICAGO (UPI)—A federal conference all manpower and transportation official said Tuesday an investigation into Monday's Illinois Central Gulf Railroad crash in which 41 persons were killed will take a close look at the structural strength of modern double-deck cars involved in the disaster.

John H. Reed, chairman of the National Transportation Safety Board, told a news conference all manpower and equipment factors would be investigated. He said, "The new rail cars did not measure up to the old cars in their ability to withstand impact, from evidence at hand."

Reed said it was "premature to assess any 'blame' for the collision, in which more than 320 persons were injured. Transportation Secretary John Volpe and Henry Winkelman, director of the Department of Transportation's Bureau of Transportation Safety, also said the accident raised questions about the new cars.

The modern cars are built by the St. Louis Car Co. division of General Steel Industries of St. Louis, Mo., who said the cars are made of a steel alloy called corten.

Rich letters

NEW YORK (UPI)—A Boston book dealer paid $12,000 for eight letters written by Ernest Hemingway to the biographer of F. Scott Fitzgerald, according to a spokesman for Sotheby Parke-Bernet.

The unpublished typewritten letters, purchased by William Young at Tuesday's auction, tells of the relationship of the two authors.

Hemingway wrote the letters between 1949 and 1951 to Arthur Mizener, who had requested information for Fitzgerald's biography, "The Far Side of Paradise," published in 1951.

Snake River said national issue

MOSCOW, Idaho (UPI)—The future of the Hells Canyon of the Snake River is a national issue, even though Idaho has a large economic stake in the outcome, University of Idaho Prof. Calvin Warnick said Tuesday.

Warnick, director of the university's Idaho Water Resources Research Institute, compared the canyon to Yellowstone National Park as a resource and said a decision on future use should be made by congress.

Warnick noted the Federal Power Commission has thus far declined to act on an application for a license for a hydroelectric dam in the canyon.

He said two bills—one proposing a moratorium for seven years on dam construction, and the other proposing to create a national river—died when the 92nd Congress adjourned.

Another alternative, he said, would be to make that portion of the Snake a wild river under the 1968 Wild and Scenic Rivers Act. But he said that decision should be made only after a thorough study of the economic impact on Idaho.

The crash occurred at the height of the morning rush hour about three miles from downtown Chicago when a six-car, old-style commuter train barreled into the rear car of a four-car, modern double-decker.

The modern train had overshot its 27th Street station and was backing up toward the platform when the collision occurred.

The engineer of the lead train was quoted in a copyrighted story by Chicago Today newspaper as blaming a brake failure for the missed stop.

James A. Watts, 51, was quoted by Today as saying, "The brakes didn't work like they should," leaving the train 320 feet past the station platform when it halted.

The newspaper said the engineer told its reporter he began backing up the loaded train at 5 to 7 miles per hour, a procedure commuters called not unusual and one permitted by Interstate Commerce Commission regulations.

"And then it was like a bomb going off," he said.

Reed said the federal investigation into the crash would also focus on the railroad's signal system and the practice of backing up trains. He said public hearings would begin within four weeks.

Gov. Richard R. Ogilvie ordered a temporary delay in state grants for new cars for commuter railroads pending the outcome of investigations by the Illinois Commerce Commission and the Illinois Department of Transportation.

Western military experts said such cluster shots provide much information of use to Soviet military missile forces and could be part of the program to develop missiles with multiple-target warheads such as the United States has.

The Soviet Union today fired eight Sputniks into orbit aboard one rocket, the Tass news agency said. It was at least the fifth such, eight-in-one launch since April, 1960, and the second in three months.

Several windows were smashed and a number of cars parked outside the armory were damaged. One of those, an unmarked car belonging to the Boston Record American Herald-Tribune newspaper, was set on fire.

At about 9:30 p.m., about the time the 6,000 guests inside were finishing dessert the newscar was set afire across the street from the armory. Scores of helmeted police—some on horseback, some with leashed dogs—charged at the protesters, estimated by police to number 7,500.

One policeman and at least one demonstrator were injured in the 10-minute incident outside the Commonwealth Armory. Ten demonstrators were arrested, most on charges of disorderly conduct, police said.

On the avenue a block up from the armory a young demonstrator was beaten by several police. He too was hospitalized.

BOSTON (UPI)—Demonstrators staging a penny-a-plate protest dinner outside an armory where Pat Nixon was attending a $25-a-plate fund-raiser clashed briefly with police Tuesday night.

One policeman and at least one demonstrator were injured in the 10-minute incident outside the Commonwealth Armory. Ten demonstrators were arrested, most on charges of disorderly conduct, police said.

Parents boycott schools

NEW YORK (UPI)—Groups of youths scuffled and threw eggs Tuesday near a junior high school where hundreds of white parents have been protesting the admission of 31 black and Puerto Rican children.

The white parents in the Canarsie section of Brooklyn say they will demonstrate again today and continue to boycott all schools in the district to protest the enrollment of the children at JHS 211.

Nearly 1,000 of the 16,000 schoolchildren in the Canarsie district stayed out of classes Tuesday.

For the third consecutive school day, 29 of the children from the Tilden Housing project in neighboring Brownsville went to classes under police escort.

Parties survived election disaster

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The present two-party system in the United States—matching Democrats against Republicans—has survived for more than a century despite election disasters which have prompted predictions of death for the losers.

If the reports from poll-takers are correct and undergo no major changes by Nov. 7, George S. McGovern is leading his Democratic party to a crushing presidential election loss almost sure to cause convulsions for the Democrats, but the party is not likely to go the way of the 19th century American Whigs.

After past disasters, the two major parties have regrouped and lived to fight again. If the Democrats retain control of Congress, as the polls also indicate, they hardly could be pronounced dead.

McGovern himself could do much to avert predictable warfare between a bloc of as soon as December, when the party is supposed to resume the reform process that caused so much controversy at the 1972 National Convention.

Here is a list of the presidential election landslides in the 20th century, with the winner's percentage of the popular vote:

Theodore Roosevelt, R, 54.4 percent over Alton B. Parker, D, in 1904; Woodrow Wilson, D, 41.9, over Theodore Roosevelt, Progressive (Bull Moose, Republicans) and William Howard Taft, regular Republicans, in 1912; Warren G. Harding, R, 60.3, over James M. Cox, D, in 1920; Herbert Hoover, R, 58.2, over Alfred E. Smith, D, (first Catholic nominee) in 1928; Franklin D. Roosevelt, D, 57.4, over Hoover in 1932; Roosevelt, 60.6, over Alfred M. Landon, R, in 1936; Dwight D. Eisenhower, R, 55.1, over Adlai E. Stevenson, D, in 1952; Eisenhower, 57.4, over Stevenson, D, in 1956; Lyndon B. Johnson, D, Convention splits and tumult contributed to some election disasters. Government scandals may have influenced the vote in some years, but the results are not easy to measure.

A walkout and formation of the Bull Moose movement in 1912 bled the GOP when the Democrats already seemed on the ascent. Yet a three-way division among Democrats in 1948 failed to prevent victory by Democrat Harry S. Truman.

Deep divisions in the Democratic party put 1924 convention delegates through a marathon count of 193 ballots, giving a worthless nomination to John W. Davis and the election to Calvin Coolidge. The uproar at Franklin D. Roosevelt's 1932 over victory was counted a factor in President Nixon's narrow victory in a three-man race. The Democratic reform movement, guided largely by McGovern in its early stages, minimized convention violence in 1972 but offended many veteran Democrats who were denied delegate seats, and TV watchers who saw the proceedings as chaotic.

The exhausting 1924 Democratic convention dispelled gloom that had prevailed among Republican leaders who were worried because administration scandals before Harding died and Vice President Calvin Coolidge succeeded him. Members of Congress and administration officials figured in even greater scandals uncovered a century ago when Ulysses S. Grant was President, but the Democrats failed to win the presidency until 1884. Congressional members of the party that has lost a presidential election usually regard themselves as the custodians of policy. Both parties have set up interim policy committees outside Congress occasionally but none clearly affected the next election.

Rail accidents complex

WASHINGTON (UPI)—In January, 1969, a tank car filled with propane gas exploded and sent chunks of metal crashing into Laurel, Miss., touching off fires in a 10-block area.

A month later, in Crete, Neb., a string of tank cars jumped the track, split open and loosened its cargo of deadly anhydrous ammonia to seep into nearby homes, killing five persons.

In 1971, 1,366 persons died in railroad grade crossing accidents, and Monday, more than 40 persons died in Chicago when a morning rush hour commuter train slammed into the rear of another train.

The list of accidents shows the complexity of rail safety which has been criticized, legislated and both improved and ignored at various times since the first railroad in the United States opened for business in the first half of the 19th century.

When rail safety slides, rail unions have tended to blame rail management, claiming that funds for safety are the first to be cut when a pinch is felt.

The critics argue that the railroad industry has set its own rules in many areas of safety, and has even investigated its own accidents, reporting the results to the federal government. The first major overhaul of rail safety came only two years ago when Congress passed the Rail Safety Act of 1970, critics argue.

The Association of American Railroads rejects the critics' argument that industry lags on safety.

VFW meet planned in Boise

BOISE — Veterans of Foreign Wars will meet Friday and Saturday at the Rodeway Inn.

Approximately 600 VFW and auxiliary members are expected from 18 western states.

They will be greeted by Boise Mayor, Jay Amyx. Idaho Gov. Cecil Andrus will speak at a noon luncheon Friday.

National president of the VFW Auxiliary, Mrs. Lois Reid, accompanied by six national officers, will attend the conference. Mrs. Vel Packer, Pocatello, president of the Idaho Auxiliary, will greet the national delegation.

Glen A. Phillips, Arco, is chairman of the conference. Mrs. Howardine Smelser, Osburn, is co-chairman for the auxiliary.

argument that industry lags on safety. Vice President Richard Briggs says the statistics show that the rail passenger casualty rate "is substantially better than airlines, or the automobile."

Its freight accident rate is better than any other carriers with the exception of oil pipelines, Briggs said. But he admits that rail crossing accidents continue to plague the railroads.

"We suffered a setback this year, when Congress rejected a bill to provide more funds to states to improve the safety of grade crossings. The bill was tied to legislation diverting funds from the highway fund for mass transit but Congress rejected the bill," Briggs said. Critics point to the railroad operating rules as another area that needs reform.

Congressional members of the party that has lost a presidential election regard themselves as custodians of policy.

Congressional Democrats and state party organizations against the "national Democratic party" represented by the enlarged and reorganized Democratic National Committee dominated by McGovern partisans.

The question might be: Would McGovern yield to pressures for new leadership and innovations as the conservative Barry M. Goldwater did after the GOP catastrophe of 1964? A test of his attitudes might come 61.1 over Barry M. Goldwater R, in 1964.

A presidential vote is classed as a landslide if the winner polls over 55 per cent of the popular vote. Wilson's 1912 percentage was much lower, but he won 435 electoral votes compared with 88 for Roosevelt and only eight for the incumbent, Taft. Of other 20th century landslide winners, Landon carried only two states with eight electoral votes and Goldwater had six with 52.

Rita Ann Heitz, Robertson marry

TWIN FALLS — Rita Ann Heitz and Ronald E. Robertson were married in an afternoon ceremony Oct. 14 in the chapel of First Presbyterian Church, Twin Falls.

Rev. Robert Van Nest performed the double ring ceremony before an altar flanked by candelabra and beauty baskets of lavender gladioli and pompon chrysanthemums tied with white satin bows.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Frank C. Heitz, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Phyllis Robertson, Gooding.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a princess-style white lace gown fashioned with a high neckline and tiny collar with white satin buttons from the collar to the satin bow at the waistline.

The long sleeves ended in a ruffle at the wrists. The long full skirt ended in a chapel train bordered with lace.

Her illusion veil fell from a band of white roses and seed pearls with two drops of roses and pearls at either side. She carried a nosegay of white carnations centered with a lavender orchid enhanced with loveknots of lavender ribbon.

Mrs. Susan Metzger, Boise, sister of the bride, was the bride attendant.

Frank Driesel, Gooding, was best man.

Edward and David Heitz, brothers of the bride, were ushers.

Mrs. Robert Van Nest played traditional wedding music and accompanied James S. Hall, soloist.

The couple was honored at a reception immediately after the ceremony in the fireside lounge of the church.

The bride's table was covered with lace over lavender and caught with lavender and blue bows. The table was centered with a three-tier wedding cake decorated with lavender bows and flowers.

The top tier was held with swans and bells and topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Lavender pompon chrysanthemums and blue tapers surrounded the cake.

The cake was cut and served by the bridegroom's sisters, Judy Robertson, Idaho Falls, and Mrs. Carole Richards, Gooding.

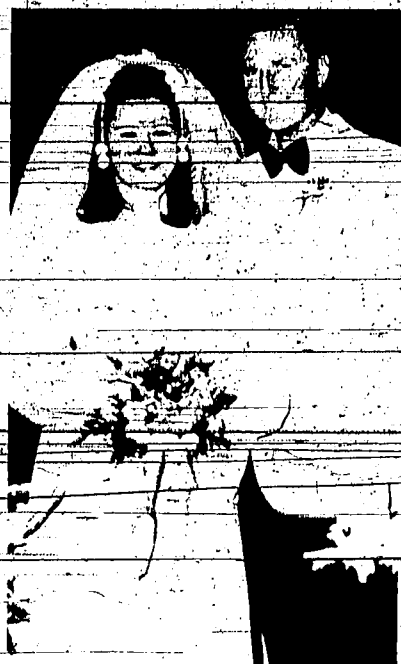

Mrs. Steve Shepherd poured punch and Mrs. Cheryl Watkins, Butte, Mont., cousin of the bride, poured coffee.

Ellen Siebenaler, Butte, Mont., cousin of the bride, was in charge of the guest book.

Friends and relatives attended from Great Falls, Butte and Anaconda, Mont., and from Idaho Falls and Gooding.

The couple traveled to Utah, Wyoming and Montana before returning to Murtaugh where the bridegroom is employed by Glen Dale Farms.

Abby

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am a boy, but please don't mention my age. My problem is that I like sports, but I am a rotten loser. I get hotheaded and angry and blow up whenever I lose. Sometimes when I am behind, I even quit before the game is over. Once when I missed the basket in a basketball game, I kicked the ball and walked off the court. I know I can't win all the time, but I wish I could just have fun and enjoy the game without getting so mean and angry.

I guess I am just a born poor loser. Can you help me? POOR LOSER IN LEAVENWORTH, KAS.

No 'good' losers

DEAR LOSER: There are no "good" losers. Just good actors. Everyone wants to win, but it takes self-control and maturity to lose with grace. Holding your anger inside is unhealthy, so when you lose, sock it to a punching bag and get the hostility out of your system, but do it privately.

DEAR ABBY: Every so often I see a letter in your column from some wife complaining because her husband calls waitresses "Honey," and gets too chummy with them. My father had that habit, and my mother didn't mind. In fact, she said there was a good reason for it. She said a waitress will always give better service to customers who compliment her on her looks and show a special friendliness toward her.

SPARTANBURG, S.C.

DEAR SPARTANBURG: Could be. But the best insurance for good service is to have been there before and have left a generous tip.

DEAR ABBY: For the last four years I have been married to a man whose wife died after a 25-year marriage. This is my first marriage. We didn't marry until his first wife had been dead for five years; so it couldn't be said that I rushed him into anything.

All of our friends are people my husband and his first wife knew. And whenever we are in their company, they never fail to bring up the past, discussing in great detail "old times" involving my husband and his first wife. It's not just a casual reference to her. It's one long drawn-out story after another in which my husband and his first wife are the main characters.

This hurts me, but I am at a loss to handle it. We are very happy, and he has told me often that a person cannot live in the past. He has also told his friends that, but it doesn't seem to penetrate. What is your suggestion? Or have any of your readers had this problem and found a solution? NUMBER TWO

DEAR NUMBER TWO: If your husband is as considerate as he should be, he should let his friends know that their constant references to his first wife are out of order. And if they don't cut it out, perhaps new friends are the solution.

CONFIDENTIAL TO "STILL WONDERING": When a gift is damaged in the mails, the one who INSURED it gets the insurance money, not the one to whom the gift was sent.

Couple recites VOWS

TWIN FALLS — Laura Kay Paskett and Kim Richard Gayler were married in rites Oct. 17 at the Reception Center and Wedding Chapel, Salt Lake City.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harold A. Paskett, Twin Falls, and the bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Elmer L. Gayler, Salt Lake City.

The double ring ceremony was performed by Bishop Max Eugene Allred of the LDS Church before a host of white gladioli, red carnations and large white pompons, accented with blue ribbon bows. The traditional wedding music was played on the organ by Harry Farnsworth, friend of the bride's parents.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a floor-length gown of white velvet and Venice lace, lace outlined the Victorian neckline, the long sleeves and cuffs, and accented the bodice down to the empire waistline.

Soft fullness softened the modified diaphan skirt. Her chapel-length mantilla veil was edged with matching lace. She carried a formal bouquet of red roses, red carnations and white daisies, accented with blue velvet ribbon.

Joan Tooley was maid of honor. Bridesmaids were Jan Parkin, Debbie Roberts, cousin of the bridegroom, and Helen Wittwer. Glenda Gayler, niece of the bridegroom, was flower girl. Kenny Gayler, nephew of the bridegroom, was ring bearer.

Best man was Ed Belka. Ushers were Lynn Gayler and Wayne Gayler, both brothers of the bridegroom, and Coray Roberts, cousin of the bridegroom.

The couple was honored at a reception hosted by the bride's parents immediately after the wedding at the Reception Center.

All members came in costume. First prize was won by Mrs. Faye Sharp. Mrs. Grace Pearson won second, and Mrs. Irene Childers and Mrs. Elsie Thomas tied for third. Club guest, Mrs. Betty Moore, was judge.

Members heard plans for the Nov. 13 potluck dinner at the YM-YWCA. Registration for the dinner will be at 10:30 a.m.

Mrs. Wilma Allen and Mrs. Thomas are in charge of club Christmas ideas at the dinner. Mrs. Pearson and Mrs. Sharp will help with decorations.

Mrs. Allen discussed highlights of the recent state convention at McCall. Members discussed the "pennies for friendship" program. Mrs. Childers won the white elephant.

The next meeting is at the home of Mrs. Eleanor McCauley. The program will be on Christmas ideas.

A Lovelier You

GREAT EXPECTATIONS

By Mary Sue Miller

A fashion-wise lovely expects more value in a winter coat than any other wardrobe item. Cost aside, a coat makes an entrance when you do for many days and months. A mistaken choice can let's not entertain the thought!

Chances of error become less likely when selections meet this test:

• Does the silhouette enhance your figure? If you are dainty, consider a wrapped coat with a narrow belt or the straight fall of a knit shirt with a slimming center closing. Pass up flared, fitted and flared shapes, unless moderately flared; otherwise, you're too big.

• Is the styling adaptable to your needs and wardrobe? Classic, fitted coats in neutral shades — black, dark brown, camel, gray, winter navy, loden green, white — are generally wearable.

• What of durability? Garmenting service is promised by sound workmanship and quality fabric. Planel, melton, nubuck, camel, wool, double-faced wools, knits and loden are this winter's quality classics.

By Oswald & James Jacoby

About a hundred years ago a writer named James Clay proposed a double dummy whist problem with the statement that the most celebrated player in Vienna looked at it and instantly said: "South makes all the tricks."

It turned out to be surprisingly difficult for the whist players of that day and the key play in the hand has since been called the "Vienna coup." The Vienna coup consists of setting up a trick for an opponent and then squeezing him out of it.

There was no bidding at whist, so we have changed the cards slightly and proceeded to mislead the hand all the way up to seven no trump.

The term "double dummy" means that all four hands are exposed and everyone takes full advantage of this.

South wins the heart lead in dummy and runs off four clubs, while discarding a spade from dummy. West discards a diamond on the third club; his best discard on the fourth one is a heart.

Now comes the Vienna coup. South must cash his ace of spades! Next comes the parade of the rest of dummy's hearts. South winds up with the ace-queen and a small diamond and West must either unguard his jack of diamonds or discard the king of spades.

Either way the grand slam wheels in because East started with just king and one diamond.

Read Guinness for odd facts

LONDON (UPI) — Mark well the names of Rusty Field, Roy "Dooms" Sullivan and Brother Giovanni Battista Orsenigo. All are makers of history.

So, for that matter, are Jack Sholem, Walter Cavanaugh, Bob Mundon, Roy Denn, Johnny Magoo and Judge Albert R. Alexander of Plattsburg, Mo.

Chances are you draw a blank on all nine — unless you've spent the last hour browsing through the Guinness Book of Records, which has made a 17-year tradition of chronicling the world's superlatives.

True to form the 1972 edition published today has all the longest and shortest, highest and lowest, slowest, fastest, oldest, newest and valuablest.

But it also has Rusty Field, Britain's most tattooed woman. It tells how "Dooms" Sullivan got his nickname as the only recorded survivor of four lightning strikes while working as a state of Virginia forest ranger.

Far from being merely a trivia buff's delight, Guinness also sets out the result of this year's Munich Olympics, in which all but five previous swimming world records were broken.

But the out-of-the-way facts are the ones that stick. Easy to find out, for example, that Bob Mundon is a quick-draw specialist "voted" world's fastest gun for the past 11 years.

Roy Denn, 43, scribbled through a Times of London crossword puzzle in three minutes, 45 seconds flat in 1970. And forget not Johnny Magoo, the one-man-band who played drums, harmonica and the stylophone without a break for seven hours May 22, 1971.

Judge Alexander retired in 1965 at the age of 105 years, eight months. There has been none older, while Cavanaugh collects credit cards 147 so far, all different. Jack Sholem, world champion fire eater, can ignite a bale of straw at 10 feet with flame from his mouth.

Guinness doesn't stop at just people. It records the world's largest brass instrument, a tuba 7-1/2 feet tall built for a world tour by the late bandmaster John Philip Sousa.

The world's tallest pagoda? Shwemwaydaw, Pegu, Burma, 288 feet high. Longest loaf of bread? A 2,600-ounce, 90-foot giant baked in London July 3, 1971.

And do not forget Brother Giovanni. His thing is teeth — he's preserved two million of them since going to work 39 years ago as a dentist in a Rome religious order.

This year's Guinness, just for the record, has been produced in an edition of 692,000 copies, or a stack 38,968 feet high — about the size of Annapurna and Mt. Everest piled atop one another.

Cambodia suspicious of Viet cease-fire proposal

PHNOM PENH (UPI) — Suspicion, frustration and desperation mark the Cambodian government's attitude toward the Vietnam cease-fire proposal but publicly the Cambodians are putting up a bold official front.

Suspicious because it does not believe the North Vietnamese will honor the agreement when signed, the government has vowed to fight "with all means available until final victory" unless the North Vietnamese withdraw to the "very last man."

Frustrated because it realizes how little control it has over its own destinies, the government has been hinting that demands made to presidential advisor Henry A. Kissinger during his recent meeting with President Lon Nol are partially responsible for the delay in signing the pact.

Desperate at the thought of being sold out and cut off by the Americans as appeasement to the North Vietnamese, the Cambodians have already dispatched envoys to Thailand and Indonesia to discuss future military aid.

It is Article 7 of the proposed accord which most upsets Cambodian officials.

"Article 7 says that foreign countries must withdraw their troops, but it isn't precise," explained one high-level government source. "It should specify North Vietnamese troops. Even worse is the fact that no deadline or time limit has been set for the withdrawal. The North Vietnamese could stay another three years and still claim they aren't violating the accord."

The government has avoided making any public statement on that section of Article 7 which calls for the withdrawal and forbids the reintroduction of foreign military advisors, personnel, arms, ammunition and other "war" materials into Cambodia and Laos beyond insisting that this applies only to North Vietnam. But privately officials are extremely fearful. Anxious military officers have approached diplomats and journalists, asking an interpretation of the section.

"If this means that the Americans are going to stop giving us military support," said one officer, "then Cambodia has been sold."

The Cambodians fear that without continued American military support they will be at a definite disadvantage should the Khmer Rouge (Cambodian rebel forces) continue fighting after the North Vietnamese withdraw.

Cease-fire in Mid-East Israel's mixed blessing

By PHIL NEWSOM
UPI Foreign News Analyst
Comparative quiet of the cease-fire lines in the Middle East has proved a mixed blessing for Israel.

It has permitted Israelis to ponder inequalities.

Friction has increased between unskilled immigrants from Asia and those from Western Europe who arrived with skills.

Wage earners have reacted with mounting resentment against tax privileges granted by the government to businessmen and against government efforts to place a ceiling upon incomes as inflation bites into buying power.

Government attempts to meet both defense and social needs have produced both contradictions and resentments.

An influx of more than 40,000 immigrants a year has forced the government to spend $140 million each year on new housing.

Among long-settled Israelis who have waited years for a new apartment there is mounting resentment against a policy which gives first choice to the new arrivals.

The construction industry, requiring heavy outlays of cash, is, along with defense needs, a chief contributor to the nation's inflation.

Total employment plus a limit on the number of Arabs permitted to work in Israeli jobs creates other government problems.

Citrus fruits produce nearly 20 per cent of Israel's exports, an area in which the government is seeking desperately to increase its production. Yet as the orange crop nears harvest time, a shortage of 3,000 workers is being predicted.

The number of work permits granted to Arab workers has more than tripled to 50,000 in the last four years and the government is reluctant to increase it further.

As resentment has mounted against government attempts to hold the line on wages, the government itself has been a chief victim since it is one of the country's biggest employers.

While private industry can make under-the-table arrangements with its workers, no such possibility exists for the government.

Funny cat

SAN FERNANDO, Calif. (UPI) — Police officers and sheriff's deputies patrolling the hills north of Los Angeles have been warned: "If you see what looks like a big, funny-looking cat, leave her alone — it's a baby tiger."

Tiki, a 5-month-old Bengal tiger cub, escaped Monday from the Lopez Canyon home of Gordon Meredith, a wholesale animal dealer.

Meredith told deputies he brought Tiki home from his shop when cold weather was forecast so he could keep her warm overnight.

Tiki stands about a foot high, weighs about 40 pounds and is valued at $1,500.

"We understand she's just tame as a pussycat right now," a police supervisor said.

"There's even some fear that if the cold doesn't get her, some coyote could. But we were told that if she survives two or three weeks in the wild she'll learn how to take care of herself like any other tiger — and then look out coyotes."

Police have orders to call animal protection specialists if they see her, he said.

Proposals studied

LEWISTON (UPI) — Chairman John F. Streiff announced today that the Idaho Water Resource Board will implement those suggestions of a management audit study which will help carry out the board's programs.

Prepared by the Department of Administrative Services the audit report has been discussed by the board and Gov. Cecil D. Andrus, but Andrus and the board have refused to give copies of the report to newsmen. Supposedly, the report is critical of the operation of the water board and especially its director, Dr. Robert R. Lee.

The board has complete confidence in the director and staff and will continue with the assignment to develop a state water plan for the protection and utilization of Idaho's water, Streiff said.

High bid inquiries start Gem probe

(Editor's Note: This is the fourth of several dispatches about motion pictures produced for state agencies.)

By RICHARD CHARNOCK

AND

GEORGE FRANK

BOISE (UPI) — Gov. Cecil D. Andrus lowered the boom on film contracting recently, when reporters started asking why a state agency awarded a contract on a high bid.

First of all, some agencies already had taken the position that film-making was a "service" and therefore not subject to bidding procedures—something affirmed by an after-the-fact legal opinion.

Secondly, the very fact of awarding a contract on a high bid was enough to attract the attention of the chief executive into this hitherto unperplexed field.

Because of this incident—involving the Department of Special Services—Andrus called a moratorium on movies "until the state has had an opportunity to draft regulations pertaining to the competitive bidding for the purchase of film production services."

Wendell Peabody, deputy director of special services, signed the $13,500 contract with Barrett Rainey, formerly executive vice president of non-profit Multi-Media Services Foundation, Inc. Rainey, now head of his own profit-oriented firm, signed the contract in his own name—not that of Multi-Media.

Budget Director D.E. "Skip" Chilberg approved the contract. Several days prior to that action, however, Terry Porter, a known camera man and independent film-maker, also offered a proposal to make the film.

In a letter dated Oct. 12 to Kay Poll, director of the Office of Special Services, Porter said he would do the film for $7,480—including production costs and one print. Peabody gave the contract to Rainey but Andrus later cancelled it, pointing out the state did not have regulations covering purchase of such services. Tuesday, Robert Lenaghan, acting director of administrative services, disclosed the contract actually never was cancelled. John Fough, Andrus' press secretary, said a report it had been cancelled resulted from a "misunderstanding" and that for a while all those involved thought there had been a cancellation.

This memorandum from the governor—issued one day before "Purchasing Agent" Dan Pilkington asked the attorney general whether such a contract was a service or subject to bid—said:

"Since film production is presently considered to be a service, the purchase of film production services is not presently covered by the competitive bidding regulations of the state purchasing agent. For this reason, until the state has had an opportunity to draft regulations pertaining to the competitive bidding for the purchase of film production services, I am instructing all state agencies under my jurisdiction to refrain from entering into agreements for the purchase of film production services."

Andrus tied his order directly to the special services agency's "difficulties."

In a news release, the governor cited the facts of the case and then said:

"Because of the low bidder's direct affiliation with the news media, the governor said he would not have allowed the state agency to hire the cameraman. To do so would have jeopardized the objectivity of the relationship between a news making agency and a news reporting agency."

Andrus also noted Rainey's connection at one time with the Andrus administration as administrative communications. He said there was no connection between Rainey's former and present positions but said the "very fact that no formal procedures are established for film contracts could possibly be construed as a conflict of interest."

Rainey contracted with the state for four films—three on behalf of Multi-Media, and once on his own behalf—but this was the first time the governor publicly raised the question of a "conflict of interest." He told newsmen he was unaware of some of the circumstances of film making, however, until the "news media" began making inquiries.

free-lance newsmen who work from time to time for KBOI Radio and Television in Boise, took exception to Andrus' remarks about the porter bid in an editorial.

He called the governor a "Johnny-come-lately" in his stands both on putting up film contracts for bid and on ensuring the objectivity of reporters.

Jensen said the governor didn't "utter a peep" when the Swan Falls-Guffey Dam to be built by the state and the Idaho Power Co. was not put up for bid but negotiated. He suggested Andrus kept quiet "for the same reason he is hiding that audit of the water resource board—it isn't good politics to tangle with irrigators in Idaho."

As for compromising the objectivity of a reporter by letting him deal with a government agency, Jensen pointed out that Andrus named Al Buch of KBOI to a commission to investigate the prison riot, John Corlett of the Idaho Statesman to the State Historical Commission, A.E. Allford Jr., publisher of the Lewiston Morning Tribune, to the Board of Education and KBOI news director Dick Eardley to the State Law Enforcement Planning Commission.

It should be stated here that Rainey hired a former newsman—Kip Ruffy of Boise—to write the script for a film ordered by the Human Resources Development Council. Ruffy, a former employee of UPI, most recently has worked for the Idaho Free Press in Nampa.

He was with neither organization when he wrote the script, however.

"At none of those times did the governor worry about compromising a reporter's objectivity by letting him deal with a government agency outside of his capacity as a reporter," Jensen said.

Safeway buys site at Jerome

By CHARLOTTE BELL

JEROME — Safeway Stores, Inc. has purchased the entire 200 block on the South Side of Main Street in Jerome.

Safeway officials in Salt Lake City said they have exercised their option to buy the property. The transaction will be completed by the end of this week. The firm will then be taking bids for construction of the building.

In an earlier report, Pete Martin, vice president of Safeway Stores, Inc., and Salt Lake City division manager, said the 18,000-square-foot store would be constructed along the back of the property facing the 200 block on West Main Street and will have room for a 70-car parking lot in front of and to the west of the building.

Martin said all buildings on the block will be removed, except two service stations on the corner.

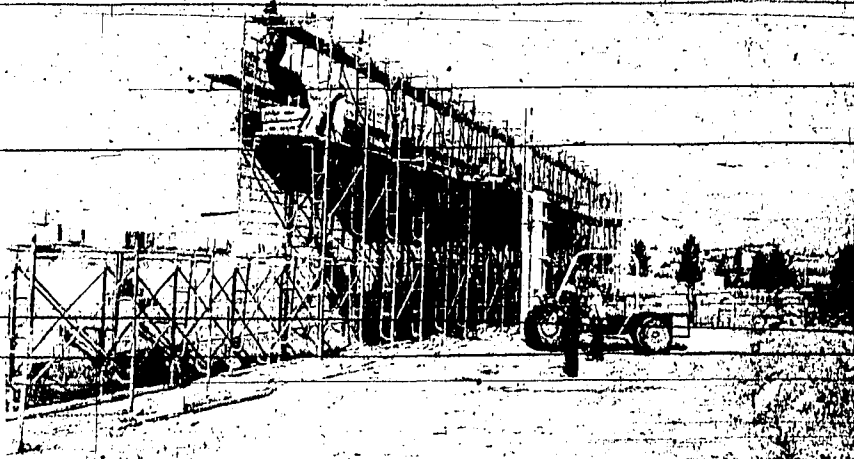

Business firms affected include the State Cafe operated by Sam Wong, which will move to the east of the new store, and Crystal Court Motel, which has received approval from the Jerome City Council to move the present buildings to a new location.

Removal of the buildings is expected to begin shortly.

Others are M and R Shoe Repair, the Trading Post Furniture store, now empty, and the Knotty Pine Bar, also empty.

The other business firms located in the area have not disclosed their future plans. They include Patz Heating and Plumbing, B and M Radio and Television, and Netz Jewelry, although it is expected they will relocate elsewhere in Jerome.

The present Safeway building will either be sold or leased after the new store is open, Martin said.

New area firm

CONSTRUCTION is under way on the new Moore Business Forms, Inc., Jerome. The cinder block building is now being built on a site located southwest of Jerome. The building itself will be a low lying structure of 90,000 square feet.

SNRA sponsors field trip

KETCHUM — Public involvement in decisions on the Sawtooth National Recreation Area was promoted Monday during a field trip sponsored by the SNRA.

According to Lynn Sprague, SNRA planning assistant, the purpose of the trip was to review specific management situations within the new area and to solicit public response to develop management alternatives and determine resource allocations.

About 16 residents participated in the trip, with a second trip conducted last week in the Challis-Clayton area.

First stop on Monday's tour was the Sawtooth Valley and the Stanley Basin where private land development and subdivisions were discussed. Opinion was also solicited on controls needed for the area.

Grazing, logging and mining activities were detailed at a second stop on Highway 21 west of Stanley. Back country management of the Boulder Mountain region was discussed during a stop at Galena Summit.

The mixture of winter sports activities — cross country skiing, snowmobiling, and the new Bigwood Mountain Ski Area — in the Upper Big Wood River region, were described at the final stop at the Russian John Ranger Station.

Sprague said both tours followed the same pattern with a description of the existing situation followed by feedback from tour participants. General trends and thoughts were recorded by Sprague, and members of the planning team. They will be compiled and evaluated by the end of this week, Sprague said.

During public presentations of the ecological description of the new area earlier this fall, public review of on-site management situations was listed as one of the four methods the public may aid the U. S. Forest Service in forming land use plans, Sprague said.

Other ways of public involvement include review of loaner copies of the ecological study and evaluation; review of the rough draft of the land use plan, which will be available next spring; and providing additional data and ideas about specific areas within the SNRA which should be considered in planning.

Cassia Demo office opens

BURLEY — The Democratic headquarters for Cassia County, Legislative District No. 26, have been opened in a mobile home parked at the old flour mill, Overland Avenue.

The headquarters will be open from noon to 8 p.m. Monday through Saturdays through the general election, announced Gus Engstrom, county chairman.

Printed material is available on national and local candidates.

On Thursday the Democratic headquarters will be moved in the afternoon, for the one day only, to the Wilford Sagers home, Oakley. A caravan of Democrats, candidates and friends will leave at 2 p.m. Thursday and travel to Oakley.

"This event is in honor of Sagers who has been a lifetime Democrat and worked in the party in Cassia County. Due to Sagers' age and health the local Democrats decided to move the headquarters to the Sager home one afternoon for about two hours."

Jerome Demo takes stand

JEROME — In a statement today Foley Asher, Democratic candidate for Jerome County sheriff, said he was opposed to the consolidation of local law enforcement agencies.

Asher said, "The consolidation will only cost more money and I don't think we as taxpayers can afford it." Foley, who is one of five candidates for the sheriff position in the Nov. 7 general election, explained his position saying, "Anytime you start remodeling or rebuilding, which would have to be done to consolidate, it's bound to be costly and Jerome County residents can't afford the additional costs."

He noted he would retain the present personnel but would insist that all officers wear proper uniforms and he would plan toward a fulltime deputy in the east end of the county. Asher said he has not received financial aid from anyone and is not obligated to any person or group.

Magistrate appointed in Lincoln

SHOSHONE — Nancy Haddock, whose father was a longtime probate court judge, has been appointed Fifth Judicial District Magistrate in Lincoln County.

Miss Haddock, 62, replaces C. M. Wilson who retired Jan. 1, 1973.

The new magistrate was appointed to her position by the Fifth District Magistrate's Commission. She said she received a letter of appointment from Judge Charles Scoggin, who serves as chairman of the commission.

The position, a part-time one, pays $8,000 annually.

Also sitting on the commission are the chairmen of the eight county commissions in the Magic Valley, as well as the mayors of Wendell, Kimberly and Twin Falls. Two attorneys sit with the group in an advisory capacity.

Miss Haddock, Shoshone, has worked for several law firms in her career which began in high school. Among her employers have been the law firm of now Lt. Gov. Jack N. Murphy, as well as the Boise Cascade Corp.

Miss Haddock's father, Ross B. Haddock, served for several years as a probate judge in Lincoln County until his death about 40 years ago. In addition, her uncle, Paul Haddock, served as county prosecutor in Lincoln County.

There were reportedly nine applicants for the magistrate's position.

Miss Haddock is not an attorney. Wilson, the retiring magistrate, is also a non-attorney.

Hansen votes

HANSEN — Patrons of the Hansen School District vote today on a $280,000 bond issue. The proposed bond issue, if approved, would finance construction of a new elementary school, which would replace the present building built in the 1920s.

Polls are open until 8 p.m. at the high school. The new school would include classroom space for the first through the fifth grades, serving about 225 pupils.

It would be built in a hexagonal design, including offices, storage space, workrooms, a teachers' lounge, and a materials resource center, according to Supt. Percy Christensen.

Area students favor Nixon

RICHFIELD — If the Richfield High School students and faculty have their way, President Richard Nixon would be re-elected Nov. 7.

In a straw vote taken Tuesday from students and teachers, Nixon received a landslide victory of 63 to 3 over George McGovern, Democrat.

James McClure, Republican, gained a 48-7 victory over his opponent William E. (Bud) Davis, for the U. S. Senate seat and in the U. S. House of Representatives race.

Orval Hansen polled 50 votes to 11 for Willis Ludlow, Democrat. The only Democrat to do well in Richfield High School was Howard Adkins, unopposed for Lincoln County prosecutor.

One American Party voter cast votes for John Schmitz for president, Jean Stoddard for U. S. Senate and John Thibault for U. S. Representative. Other results included State Senate, District 21, John Peavey, 49; and Bill Whittemore, 18; State Representative.

District 21, Steve Antone, 51, and E. V. McHan 45, with Robert Guffy, 23. First district county commission results were Ward Mills, 31; and Karner, 30; county commissioner, second district, C. F. Chatfield, unopposed, 97; sheriff, Bill Anderson, unopposed, 61, and Dr. R. G. Neher, coroner, unopposed, 59.

Six of the amendments passed, three failed and one was tied.

The tie of 34 yes and 34 no votes was for SJR 73 which would reduce the majority from two-thirds to simple majority for bond elections to provide major water or sewer improvements in cities or other political subdivisions.

The students approved SJR 52 requiring the governor and lieutenant governor to be elected from the same party by a vote of 43 to 24. On SJR 132, reducing state agencies to 20, the students voted 45 yes and 17 no ballots.

Gooding tours set

GOODING — Rep. Vernon Ravenscroft, R-Tuttle, said today he has arranged for two interested state agencies to tour the State Tuberculosis Hospital in Gooding.

The two tours will be made by representatives of agencies which might be interested in housing offices in the facility which is presently not in use.

The first will be a personal visit by Dr. James Bax, director of the Idaho Department of Environmental Protection and Health, on Nov. 8.

On Nov. 16, a large group, including the regional advisory board for the Department of Social and Rehabilitative Services, and Don Frank, regional director of the agency will tour the facility.

Robert DesAulniers, assistant administrator of the IDEPH will also go on the second tour. Regional mental health officials have been invited to attend one of the tours, but have not replied yet.

Any interested legislators are invited to accompany either tour, Ravenscroft said.

Changes set in FHA personnel

Changes in Farmers Home Administration personnel in several Magic Valley offices were announced today. Donald L. Winder, state FHA director, Boise, said the changes affected four offices in the valley and eight field offices in Idaho.

Effective Nov. 12, Jack L. Allen, supervisor of the Twin Falls office for the past 10 years, will be reassigned as county supervisor at Blackfoot. Replacing Allen will be Paul L. Sullivan, who has served as supervisor at Jerome for eight years.

Succeeding Sullivan at Jerome will be Anthony M. Humback, formerly county supervisor at Soda Springs. Allen will replace Randall Johnson, who has been reassigned from the Blackfoot office to serve as district community programs specialist, in an area including all of eastern Idaho.

Fred Johnson, county supervisor at Burley for the past 14 years, will be reassigned to the Gooding office. Dell Taylor, former county supervisor at Gooding, has resigned to become planner in charge with the Wood River Resource Area Council of Governments.

Lynn Schodde, formerly assistant county supervisor under Johnson, and Ada County supervisor at Boise, will succeed Johnson at Burley. Russell Gihler, who served as Schodde's assistant in Boise, will also move to Burley.

Winder said the reassignments are being made in order to make the best use of personnel and improve FHA operations.

Two other changes in eastern Idaho were also announced. Ralph Mortensen, assistant county supervisor at Pocatello, has been promoted to supervisor at Soda Springs. Craig Thurgood, assistant at Haxburg, has been reassigned to replace Mortensen at Pocatello.

Employment of two other aides was announced by Winder. Mrs. Helen Nielsen has been appointed assistant clerk at Jerome. Mrs. Linda Tott, a former FHA employee, has been assigned as assistant clerk at Rupert.

Hansen school bond polls close at 8 p.m.

Market Review

NEW YORK (UPI)—Heavy trading jolted prices on the stock market higher today as investors found encouragement in prospects for a strong economy next year and the reelection of President Nixon.

Shortly before noon, the Dow Jones industrial average was up 10.77 at 968.29. Standard and Poor's 500 stock index was ahead 0.70 at 112.28.

Advancing issues outnumbered declining issues, 682 to 337, among the 1,624 issues on the tape. The two-hour volume came to 6,550,000 shares compared to 6,220,000 shares for the same period on Tuesday.

Digital Equipment was the most active issue, up 4 at 84 on 106,200 shares. The issue has fallen sharply recently following reports that the company had major supply problems and would see only "modestly improved earnings."

Teneco was the second most active issue, climbing 1 1/4 to 37 1/4 on 101,700 shares. Teneco lost ground recently after the company reported lower earnings on higher sales. Deere & Co. was third most active, gaining 3/4 at 41 1/4 on 84,300 shares. The company has been strong recently after raising its dividend and reporting higher earnings.

Teleprompter was the most active issue on the Amex, up 1 1/2 at 32 1/2 on 70,900 shares. On the Big Board Mountain Fuel Supply gained 5 1/2 points. Tuesday the company said a well it was drilling in Southwest Wyoming had hit a potential gas and oil field.

Perry edges Wood for AL's Cy Young award

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gaylord Perry, a 24 game winner for the fifth-place Cleveland Indians, today was named the American League Cy Young Award winner after a split-ballot battle with the Chicago White Sox's Wilbur Wood. Perry, 34, received nine first place votes to seven for Wood. Perry also had five second-place nominations and four third place nominations, while Wood garnered six and five respectively. In points, it was Perry 64, Wood 58.

Mickey Lolich of Detroit was third with three votes each for first, second and third for 27 points, Jim Hunter of the world champion Oakland A's was fourth, Jim Palmer of the Baltimore fifth; Luis Tiant of Boston sixth; Sparky Lyle of New York seventh and Nolan Ryan of California eighth.

Perry won one-third of all Cleveland's votes and just missed the earned run average title with 1.92. Tiant led the league with 1.91.

A remarkable facet of Perry's year was his ability to pitch a full nine innings. In 40 starts, he completed 29 games, and never missed his turn the entire season. He lost 16.

Wood, 31, had been a big favorite to capture the Cy Young trophy as the final month of the season began, but after pitching shutouts in his first two September games, Wilbur never won another game while Perry continued to perform well. Wood finished with the same number of victories as Perry, but lost one more for a 24-17 record, failing to win in any of his last seven starts, in which he was the loser five times.

Perry's victory is notable from two aspects. This was his first year in the American League after being traded by San Francisco in the Sam McDowell transaction. And he becomes the second Perry to win the award, his brother Jim having won in 1970 with Minnesota.

Gaylord was a contender for the NL Cy Young in 1970, when he finished second to Bob Gibson of the St. Louis Cardinals.

Twenty-four members of the Baseball Writers Association of America were on the voting panel and they cast ballots for only eight men. No pitcher was named on all 24 ballots. But Perry and Wood were listed on 18 of them.

In addition to Perry and Wood, first place nods went to Lolich, with three, Hunter and Palmer with two each and Tiant with one.

Ali to meet O'Halloran

BOSTON (UPI) — Former heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali will meet contender Jack O'Halloran in a 12-round fight at Boston Garden on Dec. 13, promoter Sam Silverman announced Tuesday. Silverman said both fighters would be in Boston at noon Wednesday to formally sign for the bout.

SEVENTH GRADE student Kandy Sue Schroeder, making her first hunting trip as a 12-year-old, downed this big four-point buck near Hopper's Gulch in the south hills. Miss Schroeder, using a .30-30, missed two shots standing but made the kill when the buck took off at a range of about 175 yards.

Ceriello and Downs advance to golf finals

Bill Downs of Montpelier and Mike Ceriello of Rexburg came up with birdies on the decisive holes Tuesday afternoon as they advanced to Wednesday's 36-hole finals in the Idaho state pro match play tournament. Downs sank a tricky eight-foot side-hiller to nip Mark Hopkins of Ontario on the 18th hole of their semi-final match. Ceriello had to go two overtime holes but he potted a 32-footer for a birdie on the 20th hole to oust Dave Killen.

Pack feels like year just opens

GREEN BAY, Wis. (UPI) — Coach Dan Devine, his team led for first place in the National Football League's Central Division at the midway point in the schedule, said Tuesday it's just like "starting the season all over again."

The Packers kept a share of first when Detroit lost to Dallas Monday night, nullifying the loss Green Bay suffered Sunday against Minnesota.

But even though it's like the start of the season to Devine, he is worried about his troops, who "are bushed" after a punishing schedule in their first seven games.

"Being a young team we shouldn't have that much mental fatigue," he said but admitted his team does and that "rejuvenating" them before they tangle with the San Francisco 49ers Sunday is his main job.

In Tuesday morning's quarterfinals, Killen defeated John Peterson of Caldwell 2 and 1 while Ceriello ousted Al Jones of Montpelier by the same score. Hopkins came up with an eagle on the 18th to deadlock Ken Sparks of Nampa and then dropped another eagle on the 19th to claim that victory. Downs pipped Gary Tawzer of McCall 2 and 1.

In the 36-hole medal play consolation tournament for first-round losers, Mike Renshaw of Pocatello took the first day lead with a two-under par 66. Host professional Clyde Thomson fired a 67 for second while Dave Berrett, Blackfoot, and Dave Tapp, Mountain Home, shared third at 69. Tied with 71s were Val Toolson or Rupert and Keith Stanwood of Caldwell.

Perry praises batterymate for help in winning honors

NEW YORK (UPI) — Gaylord Perry was magnanimous in his praise for batterymate Ray Fosse Tuesday, calling the first string Cleveland Indian catcher

"one of the big reasons for my winning the Cy Young Award."

"Fosse pushes you for nine innings, sets up your pitches and is the best thing that could happen to a pitcher in tight situations," Perry said.

Perry said the American League's lack of artificial turf also helped him in putting together a 24-game winning season.

"They have six fields in the National League with that kind of turf," Perry said, "but our league only has one. I'm a low ball pitcher. I get them to hit the ball on the ground and there's no unusual carom on our natural turf."

Perry also credited his success on the psychological advantage he gets because hitters think he is throwing a splitter. "I don't mind opposing managers continually asking to see the ball, it's part of the game," Perry said. "It also helps to keep the hitters guessing."

Fosse said Cleveland General Manager Gabe Paul made one of his greatest trades when he acquired Perry from the San Francisco Giants for Sam McDowell.

"McDowell is about four years younger than Perry, but when it comes to experience in putting the pitches where you want them, I think Gaylord is the best," Fosse said. "There's a tremendous feeling in catching him. It's almost like being in a rocking chair because you know he's going to be around the plate."

"And he doesn't give in to the hitters. Lots of times when the count is 3-0, Perry will come in with a slider or curve because he knows they'll be hitting."

Fosse said he "learned a lot catching Perry because he appreciates my trying to help him. He adjusts very well, whereas younger pitchers might not take to criticism."

Cleveland manager Ken Aspromonte said Perry "deserves the Cy Young Award because he won his games with a young ball club and had to try twice as hard to achieve success."

"Perry is an outstanding pitcher, a leader and a great competitor," Aspromonte said. "I hate to think where we'd be without him."

NLRB says fines for fights illegal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A government hearing examiner ruled Tuesday that the National Football League was guilty of an unfair labor practice in automatically fining players $200 for coming off the bench to participate in fights on the field.

However Melvin J. Welles, an administrative law judge for the National Labor Relations Board (NLRB), refused to uphold a claim by the pro players' association that the club owners had refused to bargain in good faith over installation of artificial turf.

Both findings are subject to approval by the full board. Welles ordered that the automatic $200 fine for fighting be rescinded retroactively and players who had been assessed the penalty be reimbursed along with accrued interest of 6 per cent.

This would mean at least 106 pro football players would be entitled to refunds of $200 each plus interest. The rule adopted by the owners on March 25, 1971, was first used against 34 players of the Minnesota Vikings and San Diego Chargers who engaged in a free-for-all at a pre-season exhibition on Aug. 14, 1971.

An additional 38 were fined when a fight broke out between the Atlanta Falcons and San Francisco Forty-Niners on Sept. 10, 1971, and 14 others were penalized for fighting at a game between the Chicago Bears and New Orleans Saints on Oct. 10, 1971.

Welles said the owners committed the unfair labor practice by unilaterally imposing and enforcing the rule without consultation with the National Football League Football Players Association.

But on the issue of artificial turf, he said the record showed the owners had indicated their willingness to discuss the problem with Ed Garvey, executive director of the players union.

The players' association had called for a moratorium on any further installation of artificial turf on grounds some studies indicated it led to a greater number of injuries.

Twelve of the 26 pro teams presently play on artificial turf and two others, the New York Giants and Buffalo Bills, are considering installation of the artificial surface.

Garvey on behalf of the players said "we are absolutely delighted with the decision issued by Judge Welles."

He stressed that the NLRB official had noted that artificial turf is a proper subject for bargaining even though it was not necessary to issue an order to that effect.

Garvey said the fine money to be returned to the players would total $21,200 along with the 6 per cent interest.

A thought for the day: American playwright George M. Cohan said, "No matter what may happen, whatever may befall, I only know that I'm mighty glad to be living...that is all."

Nicklaus gets PGA 1972 award

PALM BEACH GARDENS, Fla. (UPI) — Jack Nicklaus, who tied the late Bobby Jones record of winning 13 tournaments in a single season, was named today the professional golfers association player of the year for 1972.

The honor was the second for the burly Golden Bear, who won the PGA award in 1967. Nicklaus earned close to $300,000 this year. He won the Masters and U.S. open, but was foiled in his bid for a grand slam when he was runner up to Lee Trevino in the British open.

Still, Nicklaus is the only man to ever win the four major titles twice. The other prestigious event is the PGA championship.

Warren Orlick, president of the PGA, said Nicklaus is scheduled to receive his award at the president's dinner in Los Angeles, Nov. 14, just prior to the PGA's annual convention.

ISU rates 19th in UPI poll

NEW YORK (UPI) — Revenge was sweet for Delaware and now, so too, may be a second straight national title.

The top-rated, unbeaten (7-0) Blue Hens proved they were deserving of their No. 1 ranking last week by easily whipping University Division Temple 28-9 at Philadelphia. In addition to knocking off a team that had already beaten West Virginia among other major college opponents, Delaware also avenged its only loss of 1971 which came at the hands of Temple, 32-27.

Delaware's convincing win over the Owls was worth an addition of five first place votes this week for a total 25 and 334 points. Louisiana Tech, which blanked Southeastern Louisiana 21-0 for its eighth straight win, was again second with 310 points, but the Bulldogs dropped off in first place votes from 15 to eight.

Phillies obtain pitching in trade with Brewers

PHILADELPHIA (UPI)—The last place Philadelphia Phillies Tuesday acquired 1967 Cy Young Award winner Jim Lonborg and three other pitchers from the Milwaukee Brewers in a seven-player inter-league deal designed to shore up the Phillies' one-man pitching staff.

In addition to Lonborg, the Phillies acquired starter, Ken

Brett and relievers Ken Sanders and Earl Stephenson from the last place Brewers in exchange for third baseman Don Money, pitcher Billy Champion and minor-league infielder John Vukovich.

"We had to improve our pitching," General Manager Paul Owens said from the annual GMs' meeting in New Orleans. "Now we're halfway home."

Owens referred to a pitching staff last season which saw top National League Cy Young candidate Steve Carlton win 27 of the team's 50 victories. Owens added that he was now looking toward the possibility of acquiring some much needed hitting.

The Phillies finished the season with the second worst winning percentage in major-league baseball, due in large part to their hitters who managed only a .238 team batting mark, ninth in the National League.

"We had to come up with a No. 2 and 3 pitcher to back Steve up," said Owens, who served as field general through the second half of last season after Frank Lucchesi was fired. "This solidifies our staff and gives us maneuverability."

Owens said that maneuverability could "open up an avenue for another trade," specifically for a hitter, by offering other pitchers on his staff.

Amid much speculation that former Brewers Manager Dave Bristol will soon be named new Phillies field boss, Owens said he consulted Bristol, but added the ex-manager "played no role in the trade." Owens said he also talked to the other managerial candidates about the trade.

Bristol managed all four pitchers at Milwaukee before being fired early last season after little more than two seasons at the post.

Owens noted he will name a new manager "within a week, possibly sooner," and indicated Bristol and three others, including pitching coach Ray Riplemeier, were the top candidates.

Lonborg, 29, compiled a 14-12 record and 2.83 earned run average with Milwaukee. The 6-6, 195-pound righthander injured his knee in a sliding accident the winter after he won the Cy Young Award for leading the Red Sox to the 1967 American League championship and later spent parts of two seasons in the minors.

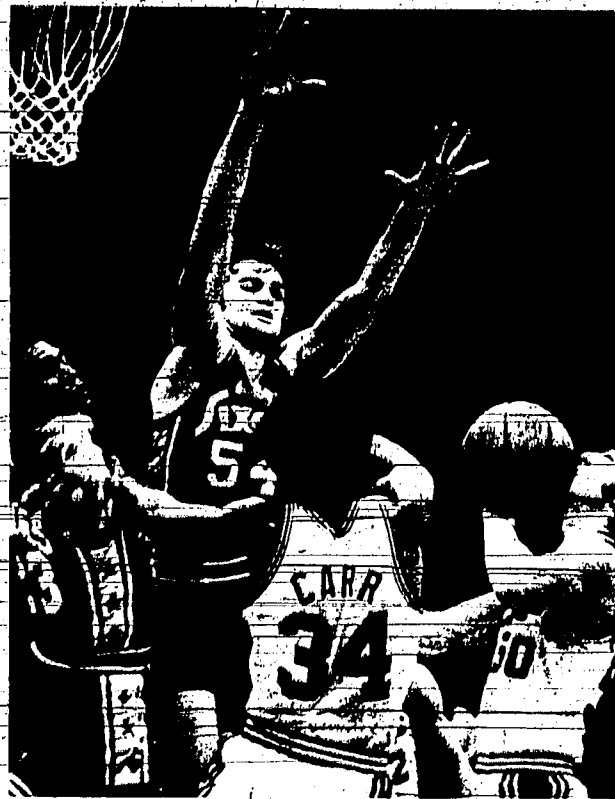

"Our people feel he's almost back to form," Owens said, referring to the 1967 campaign when Lonborg was 22-9 with a 3.16 ERA and won two of his three World Series starts.

Brett, a 24-year-old southpaw, went 7-12 last season, his third full year in the majors. Sanders, 31, saved 17 games for the Brewers while winning two and dropping nine, and the 25-year-old Stephenson posted a 3-5 mark.

The Phils' key offering in the trade, Don Money, 25, hit only .222 last season, his second straight disappointing campaign since a .295 performance in 1970.

"I was surprised I went to the American League," Money said. "The change of scenery might help me."

Champion, 25, was 4-14 with an earned run average of 5.00 in his second season as a starter for the Phils. Vukovich is considered an excellent fielder at either second or third and hit .262 with Eugene of the Pacific Coast League.

Cavs rally past 76ers

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Bobby Smith came off the bench in the second quarter Tuesday night to spark the Cleveland Cavaliers to a 120-116 NBA victory over the winless Philadelphia 76ers.

It was the second straight victory for the Cavs, who have now won three of their last five games since Lenny Wilkens joined the club and it was the ninth straight loss for the 76ers.

Smith, who finished with 27 points, came in with 6:33 left in the second quarter and the Cavs trailing 45-38. Smith tossed in six baskets, including four from the 18-15 foot range and the Cavs grabbed a 58-54 halftime lead.

Squires snap

Cougar streak

GREENSBORO, N. C. (UPI)—After trailing most of the game, the Virginia Squires rallied in the fourth period Tuesday night to defeat the Carolina Cougars 120-114 and snap the home team's four-game winning streak.

The Squires trailed by five points going into the final period. They took the lead midway through the period, lost it, then regained it for good on a hook shot by George Irvine with two minutes to go at 113-112.

Pistons swap for forward

DETROIT (UPI)—The Detroit Pistons picked up forward Don Adams from the Atlanta Hawks Tuesday in return for next year's No. 2 draft choice.

Adams, 24, takes an 11.4 career scoring average to his third National Basketball Association team in three seasons. He is a graduate of Northwestern.

ISU has happy dilemma; who will start on cage squad?

POCATELLO — Jim Killingsworth is not an indecisive man. He himself says, "Last year at this time I was almost sure who was going to start for the Idaho State basketball team. This year I have no idea who will start."

That statement would lead you to believe there will be plenty of basketball talent wearing orange and black uniforms for ISU during the 1972-73 season. Idaho State started workouts on October 15th and Killingsworth has held several scrimmages and on occasion two-a-day practices, so he should have a good idea who his best players are.

"There is no one on the varsity roster who is not capable of starting," he continues. "There are so many different combinations I could use, and nearly all our players can play several positions. We may end up starting one group of players against one team and then starting another group against another team the next night. By December 1st this may change but that's the way it is right now."

"We are much better off than

Undefeated Valley in 'B' finals

EDEN-HAZELTON — The Valley Vikings strode into the finals of the girls district class B volleyball tournament Tuesday night while Kimberly and Castleford kept their title hopes alive.

Kimberly and Castleford, each with one defeat in the double elimination tournament, will meet Wednesday night at the Valley high school gymnasium. The winner will go against undefeated Valley Thursday night needing two victories to wrest the title from the Vikings.

Kimberly won twice Tuesday night, opening with 15-1 and 15-0 decisions over Bliss and coming back with 15-12 and 15-0 wins over Hagerman. Earlier, Hagerman ousted Richfield 15-6 and 15-0, and in the championship semi-final, Valley outbattled Castleford 10-15, 15-5 and 15-3.

Lee eyes three 1st pass marks

POCATELLO — Idaho State quarterback Tom Lee is within reach of three career passing records and should break all three in Saturday's game with Weber State.

Lee needs 65 passing yards, seven pass completions, and 15 attempts to break the career records of Jerry Dunne.

The senior from Yorktown, N. Y., has completed 236 passes in 524 lifetime attempts for 3140 yards, as opposed to Dunne's 3204 yards on 242 completions in 538 throws.

In his sophomore year Lee completed 20 of 56 passes for 306 yards. As a junior he set one season records with 305 attempts, 137 completions, and 1627 yards. Thus far in 1972 he has passed for 1207 yards with 70 complete in 103 tries.

Lee needs 321 yards in ISU's remaining three games to break his own one-season passing yardage record, and can break Dunne's one-season TD pass record of 16 with eight in the last three contests.

In career touchdown passes Dunne leads 21 to 18.

Last year in depth. Last year when a player got hurt he just had to play. Edison Hicks, Everett Fopma, and just about everybody else had to play at least one game when they had no business even being out on the court. We finished the season with eight players."

Killingsworth sees the Big Sky Conference as very tough and the ISU schedule as even tougher. "The conference is the most well balanced it's ever been. Boise, Weber and Montana State are the three I rate on top, with Montana, Gonzaga, and Northern Arizona possibly just as good although they aren't quite as good in the people they return from last year. Idaho is vastly improved and they will have a lot to say about who is conference champion."

Killingsworth declined to rate his own team. "And look at our schedule, look at Ogal Roberts. They were 25-1 last year during the regular season, lost one player, have a seven-foot transfer and a couple of redshirts who started for them in past years, and to top it off, we play them to dedicate their new basketball arena. We play Hardin-Simmons and they still have their great center Harvey Catchings, Wyoming is improved with some outstanding JC transfers, we play Boise four times. Portland State is always tough, and we haven't even discussed the 14 conference games."

In talking about Idaho State basketball, you have to start with Ev Fopma and Edison Hicks. Fopma was all-Big Sky last year team center with his 22.3 average and 55 percent shooting mark. Hicks was second team all-conference forward and leading Big Sky rebounder. Both may be changing positions.

Fopma, 6-8½, 225-lbs., may move to forward, and he has the outside moves and shooting touch to make the transition. His progress has been improved with some outstanding JC transfers, we play Boise four times. Portland State is always tough, and we haven't even discussed the 14 conference games."

Bulls roll to fifth in row

CHICAGO (UPI)—The Chicago Bulls scored in spurts Tuesday night to roll to their fifth straight National Basketball Association win, 104-95, over the Kansas City-Omaha Kings.

The Kings, setting the pace most of the first period, grabbed a seven-point lead in the second period until the Bulls rang up 12 straight points in less than four minutes to go in front and seized a 54-48 halftime lead by scoring 16 of the last 20 points in the period.

In the third period the Bulls rang up streaks of 11 and six straight points to earn a 13-point margin enabling them to coast to the finish.

Rockets edge Hawks at gun

ATLANTA (UPI)—Calvin Murphy scored a goal with three seconds to play Tuesday night to give the Houston Rockets a 106-105 victory over the Atlanta Hawks.

Moments earlier, Murphy had dribbled the ball off his foot, allowing Pete Maravich to steal it and drive for a three-point play which gave the Hawks a 105-104 lead with 10 seconds left.

But Maravich, who had scored the last seven Hawks points, missed a 20-footer at the final horn.

Jack Marin was high with 26 points for Houston and Murphy came off the bench for 20. Jimmy Walker added 18 for the Central Division leaders, now with a 5-3 record.

USC leads Pac-8 in 5 divisions

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Southern California still leads five of eight categories in latest Pacific Eight statistics, but the slick Wishbone attack of UCLA is challenging the well-balanced offense of the nationally number one-rated Trojans.

USC is gaining 452.5 yards per game, while UCLA now stands at 433.0, including a sizzling 368.9 yards per contest on the ground at an average of six yards per carry.

Cal has passed up Stanford in passing figures. The Bears are averaging 234.3 yards through the air to 229.3 for Stanford.

The Trojans are all alone in defensive statistics. They have yielded only 214.0 yards per game, and that is 78 yards per contest less than runner-up Washington.

The Trojans have permitted but 70.1 yards per game rushing and again Washington is a distant second at 138.5.

Oregon's pass defense still leads with a 107.8 mark. USC is averaging 39.0 points per game to 36.9 for UCLA, while USC has only surrendered 10.5 points per contest.

Troxel cited by Big Sky

BOISE (UPI)—University of Montana quarterback Van Troxel and Weber State college linebacker Jon Knoble were named Big Sky conference players of the week today.

Troxel, a freshman from Moscow, Idaho, was named back of the week for his efforts in the Grizzlies 42-28 win over the Boise Broncos. He completed five of six passes for one score and had touchdown runs of 12 and three yards. Troxel carried the ball 24 times for 109 yards and had a total offense figure of 238 yards.

Knoble, a senior from Pocatello, Idaho, was named linebacker of the week for his efforts in the Grizzlies 42-28 win over the Boise Broncos. He had 10 tackles, including two for loss, and a total offense figure of 238 yards.

MAJOR HOOPER

Gem grain supply increases over '71

BOISE — Total wheat stocks in Idaho on Oct. 1 were down five per cent from 1971. According to the Idaho Crop and Livestock Reporting Service, both on-farm and off-farm stocks were lower than a year earlier. While off-farm stocks were down 10 per cent, on-farm stocks showed only a modest decline — less than one per cent.

Idaho's supply of major feed grains — oats, barley, and mixed grain — was six per cent above a year ago. Oats and mixed grain supplies were higher and oat stocks were down. On Oct. 1, the major feed grain stocks in the state totaled 1.08 million tons, compared with 1.02 million tons last year.

Total stocks of the four feed grains — corn, oats, barley and sorghum — on Oct. 1 amounted to 61.6 million tons, 23 per cent more than the 50.2 million tons a year earlier. Large increases were noted in corn and sorghum grain while oats and barley were down moderately. Stocks of all wheat were slightly below a year earlier and durum stocks were down 10 per cent. Rye stocks were four per cent lower and flaxseed 45 per cent under a year ago.

All wheat in storage on Oct. 1 totaled 1,879 million bushels, slightly below the 1,901 million of a year earlier, but five per cent above Oct. 1, 1970. Farm holdings of 780 million were down 11 per cent from the record high stocks of a year earlier, more than offsetting a nine per cent increase in off-farm stocks. Disappearance from all storage positions during July-September is indicated at 545 million bushels, compared with 489 million a year earlier. Out holdings in all storage positions on Oct. 1 totaled 967 million bushels, 11 per cent less than a year earlier. Off-farm holdings of 240 million bushels are the second highest of record, but 31 million bushels lower than last year's record high.

VEE emergency ends

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The dangerous horse disease, VEE, has been declared over. The emergency measure while officials kept watch for any new invasion of the disease, last year, the ailment which can be fatal to horses, made its first appearance in the United States when it moved up from Mexico into parts of Texas. Butz said in a statement that owners of all the 6.2 million horses and other equines in the United States should have their animals vaccinated against VEE. He said this should include revaccination of horses treated in the Southwest last year. So far, only about half the horse population has been protected, Butz said.

Elmore 4-H dinner slated

GLENN SPERRY — The 4-H awards dinner will be Nov. 17 at 7 p.m. at the North Elementary School in Mountain Home. This is a change made by the council and county builders from the Nov. 18 date, as first announced. All 4-H'ers and their families are invited to this potluck. Each family is asked to bring meat dish and either a salad or a dessert. If a child comes alone, he could bring such items as potato chips, deviled eggs, olives, pickles or cookies. The 4-H council furnished the beverage and rolls. Each family should bring their table service including cups and glasses. Mrs. Marilyn Jordan, Elmore County home extension agent, hopes to have a 100 per cent attendance of all clubs in the county.

Measure hit

BOISE (UPI) — The president of the Idaho Farm Bureau said Tuesday the proposed constitutional amendment to pare state government would cause more problems for Idaho than it would solve.

Dale Rockwood, Iowa, said SJR 132 is unnecessary because it will require the legislature to do the actual restructuring of state agencies. He said the legislature already has that power, and he questioned tampering with the state constitution.

If passed, the measure would reduce the number of state agencies to no more than 20 by Jan. 1, 1975.

"This gives too much administrative power to any future governor," Rockwood said. "It will create a super political machine that could be easily misused by either party."

Whittom asks for 'break'

RUPERT — District 31 Senate candidate W. F. (Bill) Whittom has asked the Idaho Fish and Game Department to give resident pheasant hunters a "fair break."

"I asked them if they would restrict the first week of pheasant season to resident hunters only," the Democrat said Monday.

"He explained that the request was prompted by a flood of out of state sportsmen, primarily Indiana, who compete with Idaho hunters and 'get the prime hunting in both states.'"

Whittom's pheasant season opened a week earlier than Idaho's season this year, according to Whittom. Whittom, permitting that state's hunters to shoot first in Utah then migrate to participate in Idaho's opening days.

Whittom also asked the fish and game department to expand its big game management program, especially in the area of winter feeding.

"People have found big game carcasses," he said, "indicating the problem of winter starvation."

The building of summer homes in winter feeding ranges, especially in the Wood River Valley, should be curtailed, according to Whittom. He said the practice forces big game into areas that are not suitable for survival.
